PRESS INFORMATION

Frankfurter Buchmesse returns: calls to protect the book industry and to demonstrate solidarity for those in exile

4,000 exhibitors from 95 countries meet again in Frankfurt / Spanish royal couple and German President Frank-Walter Steinmeier to attend opening of 74th Frankfurter Buchmesse / Bestselling author Mohsin Hamid champions the vital role of translators / 2,000+ events / appearances by President Volodymyr Zelensky and First Lady Olena Zelenska (virtual) / Guest of Honour: Spain / Featured topic: Translation

With 4,000 exhibitors from 95 countries on ten floors throughout the exhibition halls, along with numerous stages across the fairgrounds and more than 2,000 events and 4,000 accredited journalists, Frankfurter Buchmesse (19–23 October 2022) is back in full force. The 74th Frankfurter Buchmesse opens today, Tuesday, 18 October, at 5.00 pm, with the Spanish royal couple, King Felipe VI and Queen Letizia, and German President Frank-Walter Steinmeier and Elke Büdenbender in attendance. Other speakers at the opening ceremony will include Boris Rhein, minister president of the State of Hessen, Dr Nargess Eskandari-Grünberg, first deputy mayor of the City of Frankfurt, Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, chairwoman of the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, and the literary keynote speakers from Spain, Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina.

“I am much looking forward to seeing many authors, publishers and partners once again,” said Juergen Boos, president of Frankfurter Buchmesse. “Personal encounters are more important than ever, since interacting in person helps reduce polarisation. People speak differently with each other when they are face to face. In the coming days, topical, controversial and passionate discussions will take place in Frankfurt. And they will not go unheard. After all, in keeping with this year’s motto ‘Translate. Transfer. Transform.’ we firmly believe that the book industry can provide the necessary understanding – whether it be by translating literature from one language to another, by demonstrating global solidarity with book industry professionals in exile or by facilitating the international networking that takes place here.”

High-ranking politicians at the book fair

Numerous leading politicians will visit Frankfurter Buchmesse in the coming days or address the participating publishers via video feed: On Thursday, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky will put in a virtual appearance during a gathering of the Federation of European Publishers (FEP). And Ukrainian First Lady Olena Zelenska will take part digitally in BRIGITTE Talk (Saturday, 5.30 pm). German Interior Minister Nancy Faeser will attend the fair in person, as will

Appeal to protect the book industry

During today's opening press conference for the 74th Frankfurter Buchmesse, Juergen Boos, president of Frankfurter Buchmesse, Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, chairwoman of the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, and British-Pakistani author Mohsin Hamid made an appeal to the book industry. Using the journalistic resources at its disposal, they said, the book industry has a duty to create a visible counterweight to divisive, anti-democratic and discriminatory tendencies and to unanimously condemn them.

Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, chairwoman of the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, called on politicians to protect the position of the book industry. "Frankfurter Buchmesse is the world's largest marketplace for books and stories," she said. "At the same time, it is an important event for promoting international understanding. In a world in which ever deeper fissures are appearing between political, cultural and ideological outlooks, the book fair creates space for peaceful, democratic exchange. Especially in these uncertain times, publishers and booksellers want to provide a comprehensive supply of literature, nonfiction and specialised information. During the pandemic, they were successful in this role – the book industry has showed itself to be remarkably resilient in the past two years. At the same time, however, the unstable global and market situation is presenting it with major new challenges. The industry urgently needs supportive measures from policy makers if it is to continue fulfilling its social mandate in its accustomed manner."

Focus on translation

Literary translators rarely find themselves in the spotlight – even though the work they do is of critical importance. The act of translating – in all senses of the word – is present everywhere as soon as linguistic regions, cultures, experiences and habits come into contact with each other, something that led Frankfurter Buchmesse to choose "Translate. Transfer. Transform." as the main theme for the 74th book fair.

"At least half the books that have mattered most to me were written in languages I could not read myself," said author Mohsin Hamid, speaking at the opening press conference. Without translators I would have been half the reader that I am. My own books are translated into many languages that I cannot speak. Without translators I would be a fraction of the writer that I am. But there is more. As Gabriel Garcia Marquez said of the translator Gregory Rabassa: he wrote my novels better than I did. I suspect many of us writers, were we fluent enough to read the work of our translators, might find ourselves saying the same. Translators are profoundly vital. In the world today, a world of rising xenophobia and nativism, a world preoccupied with the construction of walls, translators make windows and doors.”

Extensive international participation, strong Guest of Honour presence

About two-thirds of the fair’s exhibitors come from outside Germany. Participation by Asian exhibitors is pleasingly high; North America and Central and Southern Europe are particularly well represented among the countries present. Spain accounts for a significant share here: the over 320 exhibitors and agents from the 2022 Guest of Honour country represent all of Spain’s linguistic regions, and Spanish participants even make up the third-largest continent at the fully booked Literary Agents & Scouts Center (LitAg), after the UK and the US.

In terms of its programme, Spain’s presence will be felt most fully at the Guest of Honour Pavilion (Forum Level 1), where visitors can go exploring under the motto “Creatividad Desbordante – Spilling Creativity”. Thanks to the interplay of architecture, AI-supported installations and live events, each visitor will embark on his or her own individual journey, encountering literary voices such as Kiko Amat, Elena Medel, Cristina Morales, Elizabeth Duval, Rosa Montero, Sara Mesa and Fernando Aramburu. The overarching concept is based on the “Theory of Cherries” originated by author Carmen Martín Gaité (1925–2000), who once noted that “stories are like cherries: if you reach into a bowl of cherries, you never end up with just one piece of fruit.” In terms of their interactions and impressions, that is what people are meant to experience when visiting the pavilion. Overall, the Spanish delegation is made up of some 200 authors and creatives from Spain, who will also be participating in the BOOKFEST literature festival, in THE ARTS+ and in the book fair’s trade programme.

The 74th Frankfurter Buchmesse is supported with funds from the German government’s NEUSTART KULTUR programme.

Frankfurt am Main, 18 October 2022

What's new at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022?

Every book fair is different. To ensure you can keep track of it all, we've assembled the most important information here.

App for #fbm22

Practical, fast and always up to date, the official app for Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022 displays all events at the fair. The personal appointment calendar with reminder function will keep you on track, and the matchmaking tool for trade visitors provides you with new contacts. Thanks to an ISBN scanner, book titles can be read electronically and automatically saved in your list of personal favourites. The Frankfurter Buchmesse app for both IOS and Android can be downloaded free of charge. <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/app>

BOOKFEST

This year's BOOKFEST will feature more than 60 events at 20 venues throughout Frankfurt. Audiobook soundscapes, crime nights, publishers' soirees – the programme is as diverse as the authors scheduled to appear. Thanks to Elvira Sastre, Najat El Hachmi, Isaac Rosa, José Ovejero and Rosa Ribas, the Guest of Honour country, Spain, will also be prominently represented. One new addition this year: BOOKFEST extra, an evening event on 20 October at 8.00 pm at which Donna Leon will be on hand to answer questions posed by Shelly Kupferberg. Climate crisis and sustainability – Act now!

Under the motto "Act now!", the United Nations and Frankfurter Buchmesse are hosting two events on Saturday, 22 October, that are meant to raise awareness in the publishing industry of climate change and show young readers how they can act sustainably ("Act now! How young readers can support climate action" and "Act now! How publishers combat climate change", 5.00–5.30 pm and 5.30–6.00 pm, Frankfurt Studio, Hall 4.0 Raum Europa). The Sustainability Summit organised by the International Publishers Association (IPA) and a session on climate-neutral business practices in bookshops (Azubistro, Hall 4.0 E 82) on Wednesday are some of the other events examining sustainability in the book industry. As part of the German-language event series SHEROES: Fighters for the Future (daily, 2.00–3.00 pm, ARD Stage, Forum) Luisa Neubauer, Maja Göpel and Ulrike Herrmann will discuss how people can get involved to protect the climate and create a better tomorrow. Sustainability, climate change and intergenerational justice will also be the topics during Reinhold and Diane Messner's book presentation on Saturday (Open Books, 8.00 pm, Haus am Dom). The aspect of sustainability also plays a role for the book fair itself: together with Messe Frankfurt, each year Frankfurter Buchmesse tries to find ways to further reduce the ecological footprint of this major event. Stand construction, energy, waste and hall design are the main areas in which changes are being realised.

Conference on children's and YA media: "Transform Diversity"

What makes a good children's book? How are stories for young readers told today? And what role does diversity play in this context? These and other topics are the focus of the Frankfurt Kids Conference for publishing professionals, curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse, which will take place this year for the first time as part of the book fair. Experts from the publishing industry will be joined by representatives of children's and youth organisations to discuss children's books in a socio-political context and from an international perspective. Speakers will include Peter Warwick (President and CEO of Scholastic), Loulou Drinkwaard and D'Avellonne van Dijk (founders, Wilde Haren), illustrator Anete Melece and literary agent Anja Mundt. Held in English, the conference will take place on Wednesday, 19 October, from 9.15 am to noon in the Congress Center, Level 3, room Illusion.

Cryptocurrency at the fair

At its stand in Hall 4.0 J 88, the B3 Biennial of the Moving Image will be presenting art created specifically for the internet. The pieces shown will be moving-image artwork by international artists who have become known for their NFTs.

detektor.fm: live podcast from the fairgrounds

Podcast radio station detektor.fm is Frankfurter Buchmesse's official podcast partner. The studio stage in THE ARTS+ area (Hall 4.0 G 59) will welcome over 50 authors and speakers during the book fair week. The majority of conversations on stage will be in German. However, some events, such as the conversation on fake news and disinformation with Muhammad Radwan from The Glass Room project (Friday, 21 October 6.00 pm) will be in English. detektor.fm will broadcast live from Frankfurter Buchmesse on each day of the fair; afterwards, the conversations will be accessible through the N99 podcast on the detektor.fm app and at <https://detektor.fm/serien/n99>. The podcast can also be found on Spotify, Deezer, Apple Podcasts and everywhere where podcasts are available. To the programme overview:

Focus on Ukraine

Ukrainian publishers and institutions will be the exhibitors at a 100-sqm collective stand that will feature its own stage (Hall 4.0). The stand's extensive programme will highlight the current situation faced by the country's publishing industry. Ukraine's collective stand is being made possible by the cooperative efforts of Frankfurter Buchmesse, Goethe-Institut Ukraine and the Ukrainian Book Institute. Also, both Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky and his wife Olena Zelenska will make digital appearances at the fair. In conjunction with the book fair, the journal OSTEUROPA (Berlin) is dedicating the publication Kultur in Zeiten des Krieges (Culture in Times of War) to Ukraine. Contributors to the 500-page compendium shed light on the country's multifaceted culture.

For a respectful environment at the fair: Code of Conduct

At Frankfurter Buchmesse people from over 100 countries come together in a peaceful and secure environment. The fair's organisers want to ensure everyone who attends Frankfurter Buchmesse has a positive experience – regardless of sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, sexual identity, disability, ethnic heritage, nationality, age, language, religion or worldview. Frankfurter Buchmesse's Code of Conduct lays out rules for an appreciative and respectful environment at the book fair: www.buchmesse.de/en/about-us/code-conduct

Frankfurt Audio: Networking thanks to the Audio Ambassador

Audiobooks, podcasts, audio software and audio services: some 250 square metres of the Frankfurt Audio area (Hall 3.1) will be putting a spotlight on the spoken word. International players such as Spotify, Zebralution, Beat Technology, Bookwire, Pozotron, I-Contact, Saga Egmont and Blackstone Publishing will have their own stands or workstations in the area. More than 20 German-speaking exhibitors will be present at the German audiobook collective stand. New this year is a special service for exhibitors and trade visitors: as the book fair's Audio Ambassador, Matthäus Cygan, consultant for media and audio publishing, will be networking interested parties with audio companies at the IG Hörbuch collective stand (Hall 3.1 K 61) from Wednesday to Friday (19-21 October 2022).

Frankfurt Pavilion: The stage for culture and politics at Frankfurter Buchmesse

It hasn't been seen for two years, but this autumn the eye-catching wooden structure designed by architects schneider+schumacher will once again be a commanding presence on the Agora. The Frankfurt Pavilion will feature a programme of cultural and policy events curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse and its partners that will address many current issues, helping shape the discourse at this year's book fair. Scheduled topics include democracy's ability to defend itself, diversity in the media and culture industry, Russia's war of aggression against Ukraine, the Russian opposition in exile, the situation in Iran, Afghanistan today, Europe's future and its literatures, current challenges facing translators, the climate and economics, and many more. On Sunday, the programme at the pavilion will focus on media for children and young adults and on audiobooks. Please find more information in the press release on the Frankfurt Pavilion in this press kit. For more on the programme:

<https://www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/public-events/frankfurt-pavilion>

Media partners are ARTE, Financial Times, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Süddeutsche Zeitung and taz – die tageszeitung. Additional partners: Goethe-Institut Germany, Goethe-Institut Ukraine, bpb – Federal Agency for Civic Education, Institut Français Berlin, Litprom e.V., Freedom of Expression Committee at the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, European Union Prize for Literature (EUPL), among others.

German government at the fair

Germany's federal government will have its own stand at Frankfurter Buchmesse (Hall 3.1 E 30 and E 31). Staff members from the Federal Press Office are looking forward to speaking with visitors, who can experience the stand's interactive elements. Various quiz sessions will allow members of the public to test their knowledge of politics and current events. During moderated panel discussions, guests from politics and society will shed light on topics such as the changes resulting from the war in Ukraine and how people can respond to disinformation.

Goal: Accessibility

Frankfurter Buchmesse continually strives to reduce barriers with the goal of making the book fair accessible to everyone. In addition to reduced-price tickets for people with disabilities, a personal assistance service and the possibility of renting a wheelchair or electric scooter on the fairgrounds, this year a tour of Spain's Guest of Honour Pavilion will also be offered for the visually impaired. Another new feature is that on Saturday, 22 October 2022, various events for the general public will be translated using German sign language. In addition, numerous events will examine issues related to accessible publishing and reading, such as the English-language expert discussion "Accessibility in action" on Wednesday, 19 October. This discussion and further events on the topic are being organised by the European book-fair network Aldus Up. Information on services and events: <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/visit/barrier-free>

Guest of Honour Spain

Spain is the Guest of Honour country at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022. Under the motto "Creatividad Desbordante – Spilling Creativity", it will use its time at the fair to focus on topics like multilingualism. On all five days of the fair, events on the two stages of the interactive Guest of Honour Pavilion (Forum, Level 1) will take a look at Spain's rich and vibrant literary and cultural landscape, offering space for exciting interactions with 200 individuals and organisations from the Southern European country. Guests will include Kiko Amat, Elena Medel, Elizabeth Duval, Rosa Montero, Cristina Morales, Sara Mesa and Fernando Aramburu, who will be presenting their new works and existing titles. By the end of the year, more than 400 titles will have appeared on the German-language book market since 2019 as part of Spain's appearance as Guest of Honour. For more on the programme:

New opening hours for the general public | Book sales at the weekend

For the first time, members of the general public can visit Frankfurter Buchmesse beginning 9.00 am on Friday (21 October 2022). Book sales can also take place from this time onwards: from Friday to Sunday (22-23 October 2022), visitors can purchase books and media from exhibitors at fixed retail prices.

Publishing Perspectives Forum: Expert talks on Wednesday and Thursday

At the Publishing Perspectives Forum, leading voices from the global publishing industry will discuss challenges and analyse trends transforming the sector. Speakers will include Charlie Redmayne (CEO, HarperCollins UK), Núria Cabutí (CEO of Penguin Random House Grupo Editorial) and Jonny Geller (CEO of Curtis Brown). Curated by the trade journal Publishing Perspectives in cooperation with Frankfurter Buchmesse, the two-day programme will take place on Wednesday, 19 October, from 10.00 am to 4.00 pm, and Thursday, 20 October, from 10.00 am to 4.00 pm, in Raum Spektrum (Congress Center, Level 2). Participation is free of charge. For more on the programme: <https://publishingperspectives.com/pp-forum/>

Special Programme for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries

Carried out with support from Germany's Federal Foreign Office, the special programme will bring together publishers, editors, licencing managers and literary agents from Armenia, Azerbaijan, the Czech Republic, Georgia, Moldova, Poland, Romania, Slovakia and Ukraine. A total of 17 participants, nine of them from Ukraine, will interact digitally and in person at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022.

Spotlight on Africa

With its own collective stand (Hall 4.1 H 102) and a seminar for publishing professionals, the International Publishers Association (IPA) is focusing on book industries and reading promotion in various African nations. The stand will feature selected projects of the Africa Publishing Innovation Fund (<https://apinnovation.fund/>), such as Book Aid International, OliveSeed (Kenya) and Yanbow Al Kitab (Morocco). The seminar on Thursday, 20 October (10.00 am to 1.30 pm, Hall 4.1 H 102), will examine a number of topics, including making publishing more inclusive, the library landscape and access to books for school students in African countries, especially during a pandemic. Participation is free of charge; no registration is necessary. For more on the programme: <https://apinnovation.fund/en/media-center/news/28/9/2022/frankfurt-2022-apif-leads-spotlight-on-africa-program.aspx>

Spot on: Media partners at Frankfurter Buchmesse

New location for a proven crowd puller: this year, the ARD stage can be found once again in the Forum (Level 0), where visitors can experience bright minds discussing their books and ideas. Guests will include Elke Heidenreich, Maja Göpel, Judith Holofernes, Richard David Precht, Leïla Slimani, Harald Welzer, Wigald Boning, Amelie Fried, Francis Fulton-Smith, Liao Yiwu and the winner of the 2022 German Book Prize. The Blue Sofa, the writers' forum jointly organised by Bertelsmann, ZDF, Deutschlandfunk Kultur and 3sat, will be back at its accustomed location in Hall 3.1. Talks are planned with some 80 authors, including the 2021 Nobel laureate in Literature, Abdulrazak Gurnah, Peace Prize laureate Serhiy Zhadan, Donna Leon, Robert Menasse, Dörte Hansen, Charlotte Link, Andrej Kurkow, Ian Kershaw, David Van Reybrouck, Stefanie Stahl, Vanessa Mai, Melanie Raabe and Takis Würger. The German Children's Literature Award will be featured on the Blue Sofa for the first time, when nominee Kirsten Boie discusses the award with two experts from the youth jury. On Wednesday, 19 October 2022, the 3sat show "Buchzeit" with presenter Gert Scobel will be recorded live at the fair. Under the headline "Crime Time", Scobel will be joined by Sandra Kegel, Katrin Schumacher and Barbara Vinken who will discuss gripping novels that are perfect companions as the days grow shorter. The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung newspaper, the weekly Die Zeit and radio broadcaster Deutschlandfunk Kultur are also planning their own stage programmes. In addition, Swiss newspaper Neue Zürcher Zeitung and business magazine brand eins will each have a stand in Frankfurt. Among other topics, cultural broadcaster ARTE will dedicate an afternoon to "Und jetzt? / Et maintenant?" (And now?) at the Frankfurt Pavilion. The pavilion's programme will also feature high-profile events organised by newsweekly Der Spiegel, and Brigitte magazine.

S+T+ARTS Day: Projects at the intersection of art and technology

Three projects from the pool of 2022 S+T+ARTS Prize winners and nominees will be featured in THE ARTS+ area and during S+T+ARTS Day on Friday, 21 October (<https://starts.eu/>):

The Glass Room (Hall 4.0 F 30): Misinformation, disinformation and conspiracy theories – what makes information reliable or dodgy? The exhibition will be open on all five days of the fair.

Gran Turismo Sophy™: 21 October, 11.00 am – noon, Frankfurt Studio

Deep learning and algorithms: how do you develop an artificial intelligence that wins against the best drivers in the most successful racing-simulation video game Gran Turismo® Sport? Kaushik Subramanian, senior research scientist at Sony AI, will speak with Holger Volland, member of the board of brand eins magazine and author.

Antarctic Resolution: 21 October, noon – 1.00 pm, Frankfurt Studio

What do we know about Antarctica and how can we protect it? From chemists and climate scientists to logistics managers: 150 experts on Antarctica from various disciplines have contributed their knowledge to the book Antarctic Resolution (Lars Müller Verlag). Speakers: Guilia Foscari, architect and founder of UNLESS; publisher Lars Müller; and creative director Marco Cendron of POMO.

Support in case of discrimination: Awareness Team

An Awareness Team, consisting of members of the Bund für Antidiskriminierungs- und Bildungsarbeit e.V. (BDB – Association for Antidiscrimination and Education), will be on duty during the fair. BDB is a self-organised group of people with different national and cultural backgrounds who are active in the field of human rights, anti-discrimination, anti-racism, asylum and gender. The team will be located in the foyer of Hall 4.0. Visitors who feel they have been discriminated against while at the fair for reasons having to do with a characteristic attributed to them can contact the awareness team directly, by phone (+49 152 587 84634) or by e-mail (AwarenessTeamBDB@bdb-germany.de). Members of the Frankfurter Buchmesse team can also be approached at any time. BDB offers short- and long-term counselling for people affected by discrimination and racism. The goal is to be available for people who have been subject to discrimination and to support them as they search for a response to what they have experienced. Security personnel and law enforcement officials will be on site to deal with security-related issues.

Translate. Transfer. Transform. – Focus on translation

Under the motto “Translate. Transfer. Transform.” Frankfurter Buchmesse is putting a special focus on the topic of translation. Together with VDÜ, the German translators’ association, the organisers will be staging a diverse programme of events in the International Translation Centre (Hall 4.0 G101/G114): Events will focus on translating comics, nonfiction and children’s and young adult literature, as well as post-colonial translations and sensitivity reading, among other topics. The visibility of translators and editors will also be discussed. The interactive Translation Slam, which allows the public to take part, will round off the programme. For more on the programme: <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/professional-programme/translation-centre>

The International Translation Centre’s partners are European literary organisations such as Czech Lit, ENLIT, FILI, Goethe-Institut, Litprom e.V., the Slovenian Book Agency, Die Weltlesebühne e.V. and others. The complete programme is available on the Frankfurter Buchmesse website and in the online Calendar of Events. More information is also available in the press release “Translate. Transfer. Transform.” included in this press kit.

Wikipedia Edit-a-thon

Together with this year’s Guest of Honour, Wikimedia Germany and Wikimedia Spain will be organising a multilingual “Wikipedia Edit-a-thon” at the book fair for the first time. During “Edit Sessions” at the Wikimedia stand (Hall 4.1 D 85), authors, publishing house staff and interested members of the public can create and revise Wikipedia articles on writers, publishers and literary works for the online encyclopaedia’s different language versions. Experienced Wikipedians will be on hand each day of the fair to provide assistance. Professional photographers will also be available to photograph authors for their Wikipedia entries. The photos can be used on the Wikipedia site with a free Creative Commons licence.

“Creatividad Desbordante” – Guest of Honour Spain Spain’s appearance features strong voices and linguistic diversity

This year’s Guest of Honour presents its varied literature at Frankfurter Buchmesse / Delegation of 200 to travel to Frankfurt / Spanish royal couple will visit the fair / Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina to speak at Frankfurter Buchmesse opening ceremony / Programme showcases multilingualism and diversity / Strong female voices / Cultural programme in the city

Spain’s abundant creativity at Frankfurter Buchmesse

Under the motto “SPAIN – Spilling Creativity”, a 200-member delegation from this year’s Guest of Honour will travel to its year’s book fair. Those coming to Frankfurt will include the country’s most exciting literary voices and creatives, such as Kiko Amat, Elena Medel, Elizabeth Duval, Rosa Montero, Sara Mesa and Fernando Aramburu, who will present their existing works and new titles. In the end, more than 400 translated books will have entered the German-language market between 2019 and the end of 2022 as part of the Guest of Honour appearance. In 2022 alone, 152 Spanish titles have reached or will reach the German market, 56 of which have received translation support, representing 37% of all new publications in German.

“We are delighted that our Guest of Honour this year, Spain, will be presenting its considerable literary and linguistic diversity and all the facets of its creativity at the book fair,” says Juergen Boos, president and CEO of Frankfurter Buchmesse. “The country’s multilingualism will play a leading role: in addition to Castilian, one-quarter of the authors coming to Frankfurt write in Catalan, Galician or Basque. Strong female voices will also be present at the fair, thanks to authors such as Cristina Morales, Elvira Sastre, Esther Paniagua and Elena Medel, voices that deal with current topics such as the power of the Internet, the role of women, and the importance of motherhood and relationships in the 21st century. The fair’s visitors will have the opportunity to become better acquainted with Spanish literature, the country’s authors and the socio-political issues that Spain’s creative scene is currently addressing.”

Royal visit from Spain at Frankfurter Buchmesse

King Felipe VI and Queen Letizia of Spain have announced they will visit the book fair in Frankfurt, adding a crowning touch to Spain’s presence at the fair. The royal visit underscores the literary, cultural and political significance of the country’s appearance as Guest of Honour at Frankfurter Buchmesse this year.

Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina to speak at opening of Frankfurter Buchmesse

The authors Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina will speak at the opening ceremony of Frankfurter Buchmesse. Vallejo’s book Papyrus, 2022, Diogenes (Papyrus: The Invention of Books in the Ancient World, 2022, Hodder & Stoughton), in which she describes the history of the world in books, was an enormous success in Spain and has been translated and honoured many times over. Muñoz Molina is also a multi-award-winning writer and journalist. In 2013, he received the Premio Príncipe de Asturias de las Letras. Most recently, his novels Gehen allein unter Menschen, 2021, Penguin (To Walk Alone in the Crowd, 2021, Picador) and Tage ohne Cecilia (2022, Penguin) have appeared in German.

Programme on the fairgrounds showcases multilingualism and diversity

The Guest of Honour Pavilion, the centrepiece of Spain's programme at Frankfurter Buchmesse, is being created this year by the Spanish architecture and design studio ENORME from Madrid, together with the design team Vitamin. The concept will be realised with Ignacio Vleming as narrative consultant and the graphic design team twopoints.

Its conceptual approach "The Theory of Cherries" originates with Spanish author Carmen Martín Gaité, who has said that stories are like cherries: when you take one, the next follows automatically.

The aim is for the fair's visitors to become part of Spanish literature and culture for five days: across more than 2,000 sqm, the Guest of Honour Pavilion will offer not only books, readings and exchanges on topics related to the book trade, but also exciting insights into Spain's creative industry. Thanks to artificial intelligence, the pavilion's walls will fill up like the pages of an oversized book with words and text fragments heard during the fair, and words will morph into multihued worlds of colour. The pavilion will provide spaces for listening, reading, interacting and relaxing, along with room for quiet reflection. Moreover, the pavilion's programme will feature major writers of fiction, including Rosa Montero, Arturo Pérez-Reverte, Elvira Lindo and Manuel Vilas. Star author Javier Cercas will join Daniel Gascón and José Carlos Llop to talk about "The Past as Fiction" (19 October, 1.00 pm).

In addition to the pavilion, visitors will be able to experience the Guest of Honour every day of the fair throughout the fairgrounds. More than 320 exhibitors from Spain will be present at the fair. In Hall 4.1 a number of comunidades autónomas will have their own stands: the Basque Country, Galicia, Catalonia and Valencia, along with newcomers Asturias and Andalusia. In Hall 3.0, Spanish illustrators will be introducing themselves, and the Valencia World Design Capital will put in an appearance at THE ARTS+. Spain will also be well represented at the agents' centre (LitAg, Hall 4.2), where the country will have the third largest presence behind the United Kingdom and the United States.

Strong female voices from Spain

Spain's appearance this year as Guest of Honour will be distinguished by strong female voices. Young authors such as Cristina Morales, Elvira Sastre, Katixa Agirre and Elena Medel will reflect on the role of women, the significance of motherhood, and relationships in the 21st century. Paloma Chen, Nadia Hafid and Margaryta Yakovenko will represent the new literary generation of authors from Asia and Europe, while Ada Salas, Ángela Segovia and Raquel Lanseros will exemplify Spain's new generation of poets. María Hesse, Núria Tamarit and Elisa McCausland will present graphic and illustrated novels at the fair. Also planned is a tribute to Almudena Grandes.

Literary and cultural programme in Frankfurt showcases Guest of Honour

The "Prado Museum in the Streets" project shows 50 reproductions from the famous art gallery in Madrid on the Frankfurt exhibition grounds. Visitors to the Book Fair will experience fascinating works in their original size, which they would otherwise only be able to enjoy on a visit to the museum in the Spanish capital.

Spanish authors will also put in appearances beyond the fairgrounds, for example as part of the OPEN BOOKS reading festival, which is focusing on literature from the 2022 Guest of Honour country. A total of three Spanish-themed events will be held at Romanfabrik: from a flamenco evening to a reading by Najat El Hachmi and Elvira Sastre. IG Metall will host a discussion with Isaac Rosa, José Ovejero and Rosa Ribas. Frankfurt's municipal library is organizing readings in school libraries by Elia Barceló, Aina Bestard, Rocío Bonilla, Patxi Zubizarreta and Jokin Mitxelena. The city's museums are also showing how Spain spills over with creativity. Exhibitions and events at Frankfurter Kunstverein (Twelve Art Stories Told from Spain), Fotografie Forum Frankfurt (Carlos Pérez Siquier), Portikus, Künstlerhaus Mousonturm, DFF – Deutsches Filminstitut und Filmmuseum and, of course, Instituto Cervantes – all of which showcase this year's Guest of Honour – will make it possible for visitors to experience Spain while never leaving Frankfurt.

Democracy, diversity, discourse: The Frankfurt Pavilion programme reflects what's happening in the world today

Focus on Ukraine / In conversation with Russia's opposition / Hotspots Iran and Afghanistan / Can democracy really be defended? / Solidarity or division: What will define the "winter of crisis"? / Artistic expression as a fundamental right / Europe and its literatures

Abdulrazak Gurnah, Mohsin Hamid, Irina Sherbakova, Leïla Slimani, Zai Sylla, Irene Vallejo, Serhiy Zhadan, Shelly Kupferberg, Ann Mbuti and many other protagonists will turn Frankfurter Buchmesse (19-23 October 2022) into the centre of social debate. The Frankfurt Pavilion on the Agora will serve as the main stage for the discussions.

"At a major international event like the book fair, the focus is on personal exchange. We don't shy away from controversy and therefore offer a space for democratic discourse. Frankfurter Buchmesse is the exact opposite of an echo chamber," says Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse.

"The programme in the Frankfurt Pavilion is the result of intensive collaboration between Frankfurter Buchmesse and over 20 institutions, media partners and publishing houses. On the five days of the fair, we will welcome writers, experts, politicians, eyewitnesses and activists on stage who can shed light on our complex society and make political contexts more comprehensible," says Lars Birken-Bertsch, who is responsible for the programme and partnerships.

Publishing Perspectives Presents: Mohsin Hamid

“A Radical, Politically Engaged Fiction”: Mohsin Hamid in Conversation with Porter Anderson
Following his keynote address at the 74th Frankfurter Buchmesse Opening Press Conference, author and essayist Mohsin Hamid sits down with Publishing Perspectives Editor-in-Chief Porter Anderson for a discussion of what Hamid has described as fiction’s “strange power to destabilize the collective imaginings we inherit and reproduce.” This examination of that potential for a muscular, disruptive literature will explore how Hamid, twice shortlisted for the Booker Prize, has called for “a radical, politically engaged fiction” – and how he handles the art and business of creating fantastic, timely alternatives that sting us with the hard truths of our world’s immediate turmoil.

PRESS INFORMATION

Focus on Ukraine: Voices and events at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022

100-sqm collective stand with stage / Numerous authors to take part, including Katja Petrowskaja, Serhiy Zhadan, Kateryna Mishchenko / Appearances by Volodymyr Zelensky and Olena Zelenska

Culture in a time of war – Frankfurter Buchmesse (19-23 October 2022) will put a special focus on Ukraine in 2022. Ukrainian publishers and institutions will be exhibiting at a 100-square-metre collective stand, which will have its own stage (Hall 4.0 B 114). Important voices from the Ukrainian book industry will also be given a forum in the Frankfurt Pavilion. In addition, the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade will be awarded to Ukrainian Author Serhiy Zhadan, a Ukrainian “Foxtrot Evening” will take place, and both Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky and his wife Olena Zelenska will make digital appearances at the fair.

“Frankfurter Buchmesse has maintained close ties to the Ukrainian book industry for many years,” says Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse. “We therefore want to offer direct support to our Ukrainian colleagues now, as they withstand the Russian attack. As an annual meeting place for the industry, we are especially keen to give the Ukrainian book trade worldwide visibility.”

“For many months now, there has been no room for 'normality' for the Ukrainian book industry. We are therefore pleased that Frankfurter Buchmesse is offering Ukrainian publishers, authors, translators and illustrators the opportunity to return to their book and literary lives and make their voices heard, at least for the days that the fair is taking place. Ukrainian voices will be presented on several different stages and some exhibitors from Ukraine will also be present at the fair,” says Fabian Mühlthaler, Director of the Goethe-Institut Ukraine. “The Ukrainian country stand in Hall 4.0 (B 114) will have its own stage with a professional and public programme in English and German on all days of the fair. The programme is curated by the Ukrainian Book Institute and the Goethe-Institut Ukraine and is funded as part of a comprehensive package of measures for which the Federal Foreign Office is providing funds, from the Supplementary Budget 2022, to mitigate the consequences of the Russian war of aggression against Ukraine. Furthermore, the stand would not have been possible without the significant support of Frankfurter Buchmesse.”

Ukrainian literature, illustrations and trade programme

Under the motto “Perseverance in Persistence”, the Ukrainian country stand in Hall 4.0 B 114 will not only showcase literature from Ukraine across 100 square metres, but it will also be offering a programme for trade and general visitors on its own stage every day during the fair. The programme is being curated by the Ukrainian Book Institute in close cooperation with Goethe-Institut Ukraine. Two exhibitions related to Ukraine will also be found in Hall 4.0: In its 60-square-metre space at stand G 102, the Ukrainian illustrators' group Pictoric will display illustrations about life before the war and about the war itself. By making a donation, visitors can acquire postcards and posters by the exhibited illustrators. Mystetskyi Arsenal Museum from Kyiv will present its stand (Hall 4.0 H 94) under the slogan "Arsenal of Books & Arts & Resilience". The visual concept of the stand reflects the reality of the war, "Ukrainian art under the gun". Visitors will have an opportunity to learn more about the history of the Mystetskyi Arsenal and the International Book Arsenal Festival, to look through the editions to the exhibitions held at the Mystetskyi Arsenal, as well as to see animated works from the museum's collection. Additional exhibitors from Ukraine include the comics publisher Vovkulaka (Hall 4.1 H 101) and ist publishing (Hall 3.1 K 112), which is organising a collective stand for six Ukrainian art publishers. Frankfurter Buchmesse is supporting the exhibiting Ukrainian institutions and publishers by providing space for their stands at a reduced rate.

"What can they do to us as long as we hear each other" – Ukrainian voices and topics at Frankfurt Pavilion

Serhiy Zhadan, Katja Petrowskaja, Kateryna Mishchenko, Aliona Karavai, Timothy Snyder, Serhii Plokhly, Karl Schlögel and many others: writers, voices and experts from Ukraine and all over the world will give shape to the programme on Friday and Saturday (21-22 October 2022) in the Frankfurt Pavilion on the Agora. In addition to readings and musical performances, the focus on Ukraine will include discussions of culture, cultural policy and media in times of war, and women in war and as refugees. For example, Ukrainian-German writer, literary scholar and journalist Katja Petrowskaja, winner of the Ingeborg Bachmann Prize, will discuss how Ukraine is perceived in Europe. Writer, publisher and translator Kateryna Mishchenko will talk about women in war and as refugees. Ukrainian gallery owner Aliona Karavai will speak on the topic of cultural policy in times of war. Historians Timothy Snyder (Yale), Serhii Plokhly (Harvard) and Karl Schlögel (formerly Konstanz and Frankfurt/Oder) will discuss Ukraine's annihilation as the goal of Russia's war. And Ukrainian author, poet and translator, Serhiy Zhadan, recipient of the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade, will read a selection of poetry. The programme is being jointly curated by the Federal Agency for Civic Education, Goethe-Institut Ukraine and Frankfurter Buchmesse. All visitors to the fair are invited to join in the discussions.

Focus on Ukraine: "Zhadan / Gurzhy: Fokstrotzy Evening"

This disco update of Ukrainian poets from the 1920s will be presented by Mystetskyi Arsenal from Kyiv with support from Goethe-Institut Ukraine. Would poet Pavlo Tychyna find inspiration in modern disco sounds? What would have happened if Serge Gainsbourg (whose parents were born in Kharkiv and Odessa) had recorded erotic pop tunes, inspired by Raisa Troyanker's poems? And what would Lee Scratch Perry's reggae sound like had he included lyrics by Volodymyr Sosiura? Could Mykola Bazhan ever have imagined singing in the 21st century with a children's choir accompanied by a synthesizer? On 21 October at 6.30 pm, the Frankfurt Pavilion will host the performance "Foxtrot" with Serhiy Zhadan, Yuriy Gurzhy and Lyuba Yakimchuk, an event that will lend a completely new sound to 20th-century Ukrainian poetry. The evening's visuals have been designed by collage artist Hrytsia Erde and media artist Yevhen Arlov. Its curator is Oksana Schur. The project from Mystetskyi Arsenal (Kyiv) has been specially adapted for the book fair's audience.

Olena Zelenska visits BRIGITTE LIVE

The BRIGITTE LIVE series of talks will put in an appearance at Frankfurter Buchmesse on 22 October, inviting guests to a live conversation with Olena Zelenska, wife of Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky. After graduating with a degree in civil engineering, Olena Zelenska had her own television production company which produced her husband's comedy shows. These days she has other responsibilities: since the beginning of the war in Ukraine, she has been fighting to ensure that her compatriots can get psychological assistance quickly and has been participating in a campaign to train first responders. Accessibility is also one of her main projects and she has written a manual on the topic, SCHAFFEN (DOING), which she will present at the book fair. She will be answering questions posed by BRIGITTE editor-in-chief Brigitte Huber and Meike Dinklage, head of the magazine's Current Affairs section, during a virtual event open to Frankfurter Buchmesse visitors. The BRIGITTE LIVE talk will take place from 5.30 to 6.30 pm on 22 October in Harmonie Hall in Messe Frankfurt's Congress Center, it will be translated simultaneously into German sign language and streamed live for the interested public. <https://www.brigitte.de/aktuell/brigitte-live>

Ukrainian President Zelensky to speak to international publishers

At the joint invitation of Frankfurter Buchmesse and the Federation of European Publishers (FEP), Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky will appear at the book fair digitally to address the publishing industry. Afterwards, Jesús Badenes del Río (CEO Planeta) and Oleksander Afonin (President, Ukrainian Publishers and Booksellers Association) will speak. The event is open to the public. To register: info@fep-fee.eu.
Thursday, 20 October 2022, 12.30 pm, Harmonie Hall (Congress Center, Level 2)

Ukrainian writer Serhiy Zhadan to receive 2022 Peace Prize of the German Book Trade

The Foundation Council has chosen Ukrainian author and musician Serhiy Zhadan to receive the 2022 Peace Prize of the German Book Trade. The award ceremony will be held on Sunday, 23 October 2022, in St Paul's Church in Frankfurt. The ceremony will be broadcast live at 10.45 am on the ARD television network. Born on 23 August 1974 in Starobilsk in Ukraine's Luhansk region, Zhadan is a writer, translator and musician. He is one of the most important, innovative and recognised voices in contemporary Ukrainian literature. Comprising novels, poems, short stories, reportage and essays, his diverse literary oeuvre focuses on the time following the demise of the Soviet Union and the war that has been ongoing in Ukraine since 2014.

254 – Performance by Ukrainian artist Maria Kulikovska

The brutal war and its consequences are at the center of the work of Ukrainian artist Maria

Kulikovska. On Wednesday, 19 October 2022 at 11.00 am, she will show her performance “254” on the Agora of the Frankfurter Buchmesse. The performance is a reenactment of an unsanctioned performance in Saint Petersburg, where she lay covered by the Ukrainian flag, as if wounded, on the steps of a museum. Following the performance, Maria Kulikovska will discuss the topic “Can Creativity Save the World?” with artist and Biennale winner Tobias Rehberger and author Hermann Vaske at the “Creative Space” in Hall 4.0 (Wednesday, 19 October 2022, 2.00 pm, Hall 4.0 H 57)

Special programme for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries

Frankfurter Buchmesse has a long tradition of holding workshops for publishers in Central and Eastern Europe, one that goes back to the early 1990s. Another instalment of the successful summer academy for publishers from Central and Eastern Europe was scheduled for Kyiv this summer, but the ongoing war unfortunately prevented Frankfurter Buchmesse and its local partners, International Book Arsenal Festival and Goethe-Institut Ukraine, from conducting the academy as planned. However, we are organising a special programme at the book fair for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries, with financial support from Germany’s Federal Foreign Office.

Special issue of OSTEUROPA

The academic journal OSTEUROPA (Berlin) is dedicating its special issue Kultur in Zeiten des Krieges (Culture in Times of War) to the topic of Ukraine. Contributors to the 500-page publication present the country’s multifaceted culture. Thanks to the quality of the authors from A (as in Yuriy Andrukhovych) to Z (as in Serhiy Zhadan), Ukrainian literature has demonstrated its intrinsic value and gained international recognition. Some of the publication’s topics include analyses of the book market, books for children and young adults, and book art. Publishers from Kharkiv, Kyiv und Lviv report on producing books in times of war. And case studies on the destruction of archives, libraries, museums and technical infrastructure show that Russia’s war of aggression is also aimed at obliterating Ukraine’s cultural and historical heritage and its identity. Fundraising campaign for Ukraine’s book industry “Translate. Transfer. Transform.” – Focus on translation International Translation Centre with its own stage / Events exploring the importance of translators and feminist literature

Without them there would be no international bestsellers and understanding each other across national borders would be much more difficult, yet only rarely do they step into the limelight: translators are essential, and not only in the world of literature. In 2022, Frankfurter Buchmesse is therefore using “Translate. Transfer. Transform” to put a spotlight on translation – and not just literary translations, but also translation as a communicative act. The new International Translation Centre in Hall 4.0 (G 101 and G 114) will be the main venue for exploring the topic at the book fair. Jointly organised by VdÜ, Germany’s association of German-language translators, and Frankfurter Buchmesse, the 160-square-metre centre will feature its own stage and a networking space. This is where translators can come together with publishers, authors, scouts and agents. The centre’s other partners include European literary organisations such as Czech Lit, ENLIT, FILI, Goethe-Institut, Litprom e.V., the Slovenian Book Agency, Weltlesebühne e.V. and many others.

The stage (Hall 4.0 G 114) will offer a multifaceted programme on all five days of the fair. In addition to events on translating non-fiction, comics and books for children and young adults, the programme’s topics include the role of translators in the world of literature and translations of feminist texts. The current Guest of Honour, Spain, and the Guest of Honour at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2023, Slovenia, will be organising events, as will former Guest of Honour countries Finland, Georgia and Norway. The Czech Republic, France, Japan, the Philippines, Italy and Greece will also be participating in the programme.

The entire programme can be accessed at www.buchmesse.de/en/visit/calendar-events and at www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/professional-programme/translation-centre.

What challenges does the book industry currently face, and what trends are emerging? How can books and digital formats be made more diverse, inclusive and sustainable, and how can access to content be improved? Those are just some of the issues representatives from the international publishing, film, games and creative industries will discuss at this year's Frankfurter Buchmesse (19-23 October 2022). From top executives of major publishing houses to innovation drivers active in growth markets and related sectors: participants in the book fair's international trade programme will appear live on the fair's various stages and digitally prior to the fair, offering inspiring discussions and insightful expertise on topics that are transforming the industry.

Frankfurt Audio: Focus on audiobooks, podcasts, audio software and audio services

Some 250 square metres of the Frankfurt Audio area will be putting a spotlight on the spoken word (Hall 3.1). More than 20 German-speaking exhibitors will be present at the IG Hörbuch collective stand; other international players such as Spotify, ZebraLution, Beat Technology, Bookwire, Pozotron, I-Contact, Saga Egmont and Blackstone Publishing Audio will have their own stands or workstations in the area. Selected events will offer insight into the audio market and impart insider knowledge: On Thursday in the Frankfurt Studio, Nir Zicherman (Vice President and Global Head of Audiobooks, Spotify) will speak about the vision behind Spotify's new audiobook division. In the Publishing Perspectives Forum, Jens Klingelhöfer (CEO, Bookwire), Nathan Hull (chief strategy officer, Beat Technology) and Sharon Baiden (Product and Marketing Manager, AkooBooks Audio) will discuss the latest developments in audio publishing's retail landscape. New this year is a special service for exhibitors and trade visitors: as the book fair's audio ambassador, Matthäus Cygan, consultant for media and audio publishing, will be networking interested parties with audio companies at the audiobook collective stand (Hall 3.1 K 61) from Wednesday to Friday (19–21 October).

Promoting diversity: Trade conference on media for children and young adults

How are stories for young readers told today? And what role does diversity play in this context? These and other topics are the focus of the Frankfurt Kids Conference, curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse, which will take place this year for the first time as part of the book fair. On Wednesday, 19 October, experts from the publishing industry will be joined by representatives of children's and youth organisations to discuss children's books in a socio-political context and from an international perspective. Speakers include Peter Warwick (President and CEO, Scholastic), Loulou Drinkwaard and D'Avellonne van Dijk (founders, Wilde Haren), illustrator

Anete Melece, and literary agent Anja Mundt. Author and translator Lawrence Schimel will be moderating the event. Held in English, the conference will take place on 19 October from 9.15 am to noon in the Congress Center, Level 3, Conference Room Illusion. Tickets and programme: <https://www.buchmesse.de/themen-programm/fachprogramm/frankfurt-kids>

Many additional events will look at diversity and inclusion in publishing. For example, on Wednesday, 19 October, at 1.30 pm in the Frankfurt Pavilion, LaToya Rose (VP of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, Macmillan Publishers) and Jessica Gedamu (VP Global Diversity, Equity & Inclusion, Springer Nature) will talk with actor and content creator Zai Sylla about the strategies that can be used to promote diversity in media organisations.

Publishing Perspectives Forum: International expert talks on Wednesday and Thursday

At this year's Publishing Perspectives Forum, leading voices in the global publishing industry – from top executives of multinational companies to influential entrepreneurs and small business owners – will discuss and analyse industry challenges and trends. Speakers will include Charlie Redmayne (CEO, HarperCollins UK), Núria Cabutí (CEO, Penguin Random House Grupo Editorial), Jonny Geller (CEO, Curtis Brown), Shereen Kreidieh (publisher, Asala Books), Niko Pfund (President, Oxford University Press USA), Tobias Henning (General Manager, TikTok Germany and Central Eastern Europe) and Sam Taylor (film producer and founder, Film and Music Entertainment), among many others. Curated by the international trade magazine Publishing Perspectives in cooperation with Frankfurter Buchmesse, the two-day English-language programme will take place on Wednesday, 19 October from 10 am to 4 pm, and on Thursday, 20 October, from 10 am to 4 pm, in Messe Frankfurt's Congress Center, Room Spektrum. Participation is free of charge. For more on the programme: <https://publishingperspectives.com/pp-forum/>

Frankfurt Studio: Industry events from Wednesday to Friday

Talks with CEOs, current data and accessibility, science publishing and AI

Discussions with experts and events for publishing professionals will make up the programme at the Frankfurt Studio (Hall 4.0, Europa Room) from Wednesday to Friday (19–21 October 2022).

CEOs of major publishing houses and international industry players will be taking questions from the trade press on Wednesday. Jesús Badenes del Río (CEO, Planeta publishing group) will speak with Porter Anderson (editor-in-chief of Publishing Perspectives), and Ashleigh Gardner (Senior Vice President, Managing Director Global Publishing, Wattpad WEBTOON Studios) and Michael Tamblyn (CEO, Kobo Rakuten) will answer questions by representatives of the international trade press during the Global 50 CEO Talk. At the Book Fair Directors' Round Table on Friday four book fair directors from three continents come together: Juergen Boos (Director, Frankfurter Buchmesse), Eva Orúe (Director, Feria del Libro Madrid), Rex How (Chairman, Taipei International Book Exhibition) and Mamadou Aliou Sow (Director, Conakry International Children's Book Fair, Guinea) will discuss the challenges and opportunities associated with the publishing industry's biggest events. Facts and figures on the international publishing market will be presented by the Federation of European Publishers (FEP) and the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO). Speakers at the WIPO event include Bodour Al Qasimi (President, IPA), Ronald Schild (CEO, MVB) and Kevin Fitzgerald (Director of Digital Outreach, WIPO). On Thursday, everything will revolve around academic publishing: From noon to 3.00 pm, Wiley-VCH, ProQuest, Taylor & Francis and Copyright Clearance Center (CCC) will be hosting a range of talks by industry professionals.

How do you develop an AI application? Kaushik Subramanian, senior research scientist at Sony AI, will be speaking on Friday with Holger Volland, board member of brand eins and author, on the development of Gran Turismo Sophy™ – an artificial intelligence that competes against the best drivers in the most successful racing simulation video game, Gran Turismo® Sport. The event is one of the book fair's S+T+ARTS Day happenings, which are taking place as part of the EU project S+T+ARTS.

The Frankfurt Studio sessions will be recorded and posted in the Frankfurter Buchmesse media library; they can be watched for free: <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/media-library>

Trade programme on translation

On all five days of the fair, the topic of literary translations will take centre stage at the International Translation Centre (4.0 G 114). This is where discussions on making editors and translators more visible can be heard, along with talks on postcolonial translations and how Arabic literature is received in Europe. The International Translation Centre's programme is being curated by the German translators' association VdÜ and Frankfurter Buchmesse; partners include European literary organisations such as Czech Lit, ENLIT, FILI, Goethe Institute, Litprom e.V., the Slovenian Book Agency, Die Weltlesebühne e.V., and many others.

More information can be found in the press release on the focus topic "Translation" included in this press kit.

Spotlight on Africa: Seminar for publishing professionals

Organised by the International Publishers Organisation, a seminar for publishing professionals will be held at the Africa Publishing Innovation Fund stand (Hall 4.1 H 102) on Thursday (10.00 am – 1.30 pm). Among other topics, the seminar will examine efforts to promote inclusive publishing, the library landscape, and access to books for school students in African countries.

Participation is included in the book fair ticket, no registration required. Find the seminar's programme here: <https://www.apinnovation.fund/en/media-center/news/28/9/2022/frankfurt-2022-apif-leads-spotlight-on-africa-program.aspx>

Accessible publishing and reading

From Wednesday to Friday, numerous trade events will take place dedicated to the topic of accessible publishing and reading. This includes the trade talk “Accessibility in Action” on Wednesday afternoon in the Frankfurt Studio, and the open networking event for publishing professionals which will follow afterwards. Another event focuses on ways to achieve accessibility in different regions. Many of the events are being organised by Frankfurter Buchmesse as part of the EU project Aldus Up.

Event overview: <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/visit/barrier-free>

Sustainability in the publishing industry

Under the motto “Act now!”, the United Nations and Frankfurter Buchmesse are hosting two events on Saturday that call on the publishing industry to go climate neutral and show young readers how they can act sustainably (“Act now! How young readers can support climate action” and “Act now! How publishers combat climate change”). In addition to the Sustainability Summit on Wednesday organised by the International Publishers Association, other events will examine the topic of sustainability in the book industry – from climate-neutral practices in bookshops to the current state of corporate social responsibility at publishing and media organisations.

Book-to-film events

Together with the Berlinale, Frankfurter Buchmesse will bring together representatives of the book and film industries to facilitate cross-media rights and licensing agreements. On Friday, Frankfurter Buchmesse and the Berlinale invite publishers and film producers to a matchmaking event in Frankfurt. How can a bestselling book be turned into a successful movie or series? That is the topic to be addressed by Jonny Geller (CEO of the British literary agency Curtis Brown) on Wednesday at the Publishing Perspectives Forum.

Selected events for publishing professionals:

Abdulrazak Gurnah, Donna Leon, Alok Vaid-Menon, Diane Kruger and many more: #fbm22 highlights for the general public at a glance

Live at last: visitors to Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022 will experience acclaimed authors, inspiring talks and stimulating discussions live on the main stage in the Congress Center, in the Frankfurt Studio, in the Frankfurt Pavilion and, during the evening, at BOOKFEST city events throughout Frankfurt.

Speakers in Frankfurt will include Abdulrazak Gurnah, recipient of the 2021 Nobel Prize in Literature, who will talk about his latest novel and the challenges of translation (22 October, 11.00 am – 12.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora). Bestselling authors Mohsin Hamid, Donna Leon, Leila Slimani and Ian Kershaw and Grufallo illustrator Axel Scheffler will also present their most recent books.

As part of their German tour, non-binary artist Alok Vaid-Menon from the United States will present their newest book Mehr als binär (More Than Binary) in Frankfurt. In making their art, Alok uses poetry, comedy, performances, readings, soundscapes, fashion design, self-portraits and social media – and has over one million followers on TikTok and Instagram (Sunday, 23 October 2022, 12.30–13.00 pm, Frankfurt Studio). On Saturday, the German-American actor Diane Kruger (Troy, Inglourious Basterds) will present her children’s book Dein Name (Your Name), which is dedicated to her daughter and which looks at her childhood in Germany (Saturday, 22 October, 1.30–2.30 pm, Harmonie Hall, Congress Center).

On Friday, young authors and opinion leaders will discuss today’s culture of debate at the event “Und jetzt? Ein Nachmittag zur Zukunft der Gesellschaft von ARTE” (And now? An afternoon on the future of society, from ARTE / 21 October, 5.00-6.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora). The day will conclude with a concert featuring the Ukrainian author and musician Serhiy Zhadan, recipient of the 2022 Peace Prize of the German Book Trade.

We are currently facing major challenges: pandemics, climate change, wars. How can we remain hopeful? What are the best, most scintillating ideas in literature, art and politics? Actress and content creator Zai Sylla and authors Ann Mbuti, Tupoka Ogette and Teresa Bücker will talk with journalist Amna Franzke about these issues on Saturday evening in the Frankfurt Pavilion (8–10 pm).

Rethinking society will also be the topic during Luisa Neubauer’s book presentation (Gegen die Ohnmacht. Meine Großmutter, die Politik und ich / Against Powerlessness. My Grandmother, Politics and Me). She wrote her latest work together with her almost 90-year-old grandmother Dagmar Reemtsma (Saturday, 22 October, 10.30-11.30 am, Harmonie Hall, Congress Center).

Children and fans of quality literature for children and young adults will be in their element at the weekend, when many additional readings take place in the Congress Center and the Frankfurt Pavilion. Authors will include Alice Pantermüller and Daniela Kohl (Mein Lotta Leben / My Lotta Life), Tatjana Kiel and Dr Wladimir Klitschko (digital) (Wil, der Wolkenstürmer / Wil, the Cloud Striker), Paul Maar (Das Sams und die große Weihnachtssuche / Sams and the Great Christmas Hunt), Detlev Jöcker and Marcus Pfister (Der Regenbogenfisch / The Rainbow Fish), Katja Brandis (Woodwalkers Staffel 2 / Woodwalkers Series 2) and Silke Schellhammer (School of Talents).

Those who like their stories colourful or as performances can attend the finals of the German Cosplay Championship (Sunday, 23 October, 1.30 pm, Congress Center) and the TikTok stage (Sunday, 23 October 2022, 10.00 am – 5.00 pm, Agora, for details see the press release “Literally #BookTok: TikTok and Frankfurter Buchmesse launch cooperation”).

In 2022, the BOOKFEST programme will once again delight literature fans at over 20 locations in Frankfurt – with guests like Elvira Sastre and Donna Leon, among others (for details, see press release “BOOKFEST 2022”).

Many authors will also be signing their works in the signing tents on the Agora. Alok Vaid-Menon, Charlotte Link, Kirsten Boie and many others will be present on site.

All events and authors can be found in the Calendar of Events at www.buchmesse.de/en/visit/calendar-events and in the list of “authors and VIPs at #fbm22.”

New: book sales will take place this year from Friday to Sunday.

Literally #BookTok: TikTok and Frankfurter Buchmesse launch cooperation

TikTok puts #BookTok community in the spotlight with stage programme / Talks, workshops and performances with creators, authors and publishers / Livestreams and Creation Corner will bring the community digitally to #fbm22

Anyone who wants to discover new books or genres or is seeking literary recommendations will find a wide range of content on TikTok. The #BookTok community has been growing constantly for years and inspires millions of users worldwide. To celebrate the community and its joy of reading and writing, TikTok has become one of Frankfurter Buchmesse's partners for the first time this year. TikTok will be making use its own stage on the Agora and a specially curated German-language programme to give visitors a live experience of #BookTok culture.

As a partner, TikTok is helping the book fair reach a diverse audience. From 10.00 am to 5.00 pm on Sunday, 23 October 2022, TikTok will host a stage on the centrally located Agora, where it will present talks, workshops and performances that bring together some of the most popular creators, authors and publishers in the #BookTok community. Guests will include julesboringlife, flying_bengel, avalino.diversity, charlotteschueler, tabeajoanna and Brix Schaumburg, among others.

In the #BookTok Creation Corner, #BookTok creators will also be invited to record their own videos and stream live from the fair, thereby sharing their impressions with the community and interacting with book lovers.

“The book fair stands for respect, diversity and tolerance. It thrives on the heterogeneity of its participants and on an exchange among equals within an open dialogue. We are therefore all the more pleased to be working together with TikTok this year, thereby sharing our multifaceted programme with an even larger global community,” says Lars Birken-Bertsch, Director of Strategic Project Development, Cooperation and Programmes at Frankfurter Buchmesse.

“The #BookTok phenomenon has captured the hearts of our community members. Creators, authors and reading fans come together on TikTok every day to share their passion for books. With more than 73 billion views worldwide, #BookTok has given new life to classic titles and helped bring new authors and books to an audience of millions. As a result, we are especially excited to be giving the #BookTok community a stage not only on TikTok, but also at the world's largest book fair,” says Tobias Henning, General manager of TikTok Germany & Central Eastern Europe.

Many publishers and booksellers have already recognised the extraordinary global reach of the #BookTok hashtag and the far-reaching cultural influence that has resulted even beyond the platform itself. Yet local hashtags such as #GermanBookTok have also succeeded in generating more than 38 million views, and #BookTokGermany has had even more, with over 275 million views. Popular hashtags such as #Manga, #Fantasy, #Romance and #Crime, which are used for the most popular literary genres, demonstrate how diverse the community has already become.

The stage programme will be streamed live on TikTok on 23 October for all the TikTok users who cannot make it to this year's book fair in person.

Event highlights on the TikTok Stage, Sunday, 23 October 2022, Agora (in German)

International fellowship and grant programmes at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022

Approximately 110 programme participants from over 50 countries / Book fair as a meeting place for international exchange

From Armenia to South Africa, from Azerbaijan to Togo: in 2022, more than 110 publishers, booksellers, literary agents, translators and rights and licensing managers from over 50 countries will be taking part in Frankfurter Buchmesse's international fellowship and grant programmes. Around 90 of the participants will travel to this year's book fair as part of the programmes. After two years of the pandemic, the focus will be on face-to-face meetings in Frankfurt.

"Supporting our industry's young professionals and promoting exchange across countries and cultures all year round is an important part of Frankfurter Buchmesse," says Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse. "The grant and fellowship programmes we have been organising together with our partners for many years serve as catalysts for the participants' professional careers. As a result, I am all the more pleased that this year, after many digital interactions, in-person meetings will be taking place in Frankfurt once again. Our programmes make it possible for participants to visit the fair, expand their professional networks, gain insight into international book markets and, not least, experience formative face-to-face encounters."

New: Special Programme for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries

Frankfurter Buchmesse has a long tradition of hosting workshops for publishers in Central and Eastern Europe, one that dates back to the early 1990s. A continuation of the successful Summer Academy for publishers from Central and Eastern Europe was planned for 2022 in Kyiv. Unfortunately, the ongoing war is preventing Frankfurter Buchmesse and its local partner institutions, International Book Arsenal Festival and Goethe-Institut Ukraine, from carrying out the project as scheduled. The book fair has therefore launched a Special Programme for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries, which is being organised with support from Germany's Federal Foreign Office. The programme brings together publishers, editors, licensing managers and literary agents from Armenia, Azerbaijan, the Czech Republic, Georgia, Moldova, Poland, Romania, Slovakia and Ukraine. The programme's 17 participants, 9 of them from Ukraine, will meet digitally and in person at the book fair in Frankfurt.

Invitation Programme: 20 publishers from 20 countries at the fair

In 2022, 80 publishers applied to participate in Frankfurter Buchmesse's Invitation Programme which, in cooperation with Germany's Federal Foreign Office, has enabled publishers from Africa, Asia, the Arab world Latin America, the Caribbean and Eastern Europe to participate in the world's largest industry gathering for over 50 years. As part of the programme, 20 publishers from 20 countries will travel to Germany to exhibit at the collective stand (4.1 H101 and 4.1 H81) at the fair. This year, publishers will attend from Azerbaijan, Lebanon, North Macedonia, Nigeria, Colombia, Cuba, Rwanda and Togo, among other nations. Prior to the fair, participants will take part in a multi-day professional programme and will have the opportunity to discuss a range of topics with experts, such as marketing and sales, rights and licensing, and book design.

Frankfurt Fellowship: International exchange for more than 20 years

Thanks to the Frankfurt Fellowship Programme, Frankfurter Buchmesse has been bringing together publishers, editors, rights and licensing managers and literary agents from around the world every year since 1998. The programme focuses on promoting an exchange of information and developing an international network. The 15 Frankfurt Fellows will be traveling to Frankfurt from a range of countries, including Armenia, Brazil, Indonesia, France and Finland. Having successfully competed against 82 candidates from 38 countries during the selection process, this year's fellows will visit publishing houses, literary agencies, bookshops and, of course, the book fair. Their agenda also includes matchmaking sessions and networking events in Frankfurt and Berlin. The programme is organised with financial support from Germany's Federal Foreign Office.

Analogous to the Frankfurt Fellowship, the Paris-Frankfurt Fellowship is designed to strengthen the industry's network of young professionals from Germany, France and Switzerland. This year, 14 fellows will be taking part in the programme, which includes study visits to Germany and Paris. One thing the fellows all have in common is a keen interest in the book markets of their neighbouring countries. The programme is organised by Frankfurter Buchmesse together with the Bureau International de l'Édition Française (BIEF) and Pro Helvetia, with financial support from the Deutsch-Französisches Jugendwerk (DFJW).

Booksellers from across the globe to attend the fair

Through Frankfurt International Booksellers, the book fair promotes the presence of foreign-language literature in the book trade. During the fair, 15 booksellers from 15 countries will travel to Frankfurt. All of them offer foreign-language titles in their bookshops and want to gain concrete insights into Germany's book market and publishing landscape. In addition to interacting with others in the programme, the booksellers will also meet with participants in the Frankfurt Fellowship and the Invitation Programme. Frankfurt International Booksellers is organised with financial support from Germany's Federal Foreign Office.

Translate. Transfer. Transform. – Programmes for promoting translation

The topic of translation runs like a thread through all areas of Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022. For the second year, the Special Programme for young German-language translators will take place in cooperation with the German Translation Fund and with financial support from the German government's NEUSTART KULTUR programme. The special programme assists young translators who translate literary texts into German and who are just beginning their professional careers. Twenty translators will travel to the book fair as part of the programme.

The Georges-Arthur Goldschmidt Programme makes it possible for 10 young translators from France, Germany and Switzerland to become acquainted with publishing houses in all three countries. Participants work on their own projects under the guidance of experienced translators. The grant programme is organised by Frankfurter Buchmesse together with the Bureau International de l'Édition Française (BIEF) and Pro Helvetia, with financial support from the Deutsch-Französisches Jugendwerk (DFJW).

Creativity and crisis. ARTE discussion with Wolf Singer, Luisa-Celinè Gaffron, Maria Isserlis und Hermann Vaske

Saturday, 22 October, 3.00 pm, Hall 4.0 H 57

Why are we creative, why are we not - and can creativity save the world? Director Hermann Vaske discusses these questions not only in his documentary trilogy with international stars, but also in view of the many crises, he also discusses them in his "Creativity Space" at the Frankfurt Book Fair together with ARTE, brain researcher Wolf Singer, actress and activist Luisa-Celinè Gaffron, and Ukrainian curator Maria Isserlis. The event will be moderated by Sabine Bubeck-Paaz, ZDF/ARTE.

Focus on Ukraine: Multilayered narratives – writing and narrating in a state of war
Saturday, 22 October, 3.00 – 4.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora

Writers are masters of observation and narration. With the art of the word they describe the universal through the concrete, through individual fates historical events are illustrated. In literature, readers also look for answers to what moves them. But what happens to the language of authors who find themselves in existential danger? Can they continue to write or do they fall silent? What does writing and literature mean in a country whose culture has been declared a target of extermination? The Ukrainian writers Andrei Kurkov, Lyubov Yakymchuk and Olesya Yaremchuk will talk about this.

Distorting mirror - 'Lessons from history' - an empty phrase?

Saturday, 22 October, 4.00 – 5.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora

With the war in Ukraine, the gaze also falls on the unprocessed and long overlooked violence in Russian history and present in the West. Mass destruction, which became a certainty with every liberated place like Butcha or Izjum, is the result. Why was Russia's neo-imperial posturing and nationalist rhetoric ignored in Europe for so long? How was it possible to fall "into a sleep of history" in this country, even though it is precisely in Germany that history plays a constituent role for the postwar period. Against this background, can lessons from history still be learned for the future? Conversation with Vasyl Cherepanyn, Manfred Sapper and Andrii Portnov

Act now! How young readers can support climate action

Saturday, 22 October, 5.00 – 5.30 pm, Frankfurt Studio (Hall 4.0, Room Europa)

Organised by United Nations in cooperation with Frankfurter Buchmesse.

This event will explore how identifying accessible stories found in children's books introduce climate change to young audiences and how those books help them relate to global issues and being part of the solution. The SDG Book Club has been expanding its reading initiative globally in many languages (with a newly launched German Club), including a reading list for Sustainable Development Goal 13: Climate Action and hopes to continue to inspire action in children's communities.

Focus on Ukraine: At the front – media and civil society in times of war

Saturday, 22 October, 5.00 – 6.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora

The social resilience in Ukraine and the impressive solidarity during the war are based on a functioning civil society. It is noticeable that many NGOs in Ukraine are led by women, which is also true for independent media. Sevgil Musaeva, editor-in-chief of the online newspaper Ukrajinska Pravda, and Oleksandra Matviychuk, head of the CCL - Center for Civil Liberties (Nobel Peace Prize 2022), talk about challenges for the media and NGOs and their work in the war.

Focus on Ukraine: Border crossings – women at war and on the run

Saturday, 22 October, 6.00 – 7.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora

The fate of millions of Ukrainians changed at the moment of Russia's widespread attack. In particular, many women had to leave their homes and husbands and seek shelter for their children and parents outside the homeland. Is an emancipatory feminist movement also a response to the war? With: Kateryna Mischenko, Tamara Martseniuk and Tayra (Julia Payevska). Moderator: Katharina Raabe.

Amazing People Shaping our World

Saturday, 22 October, 8.00 – 10.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora

Ann Mbuti's book "Black Artists Now" brings together over 15 impressive Black artists from around the world who are bringing a new "spirit" to the still predominantly white and male dominated art world. We bring Mbuti (author and cultural publicist) together with Teresa Bucker (journalist and author), whose book "Alle Zeit" (All Time) deals with the fair distribution of time and social justice. Opening of Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022 / Rising costs putting publishers and bookstores under pressure / Appeal to policymakers: long-term support for the book industry as well as short-term relief measures for small and medium-sized enterprises

The world's largest marketplace for books, the start of the autumn reading season and an important cultural event for strengthening international understanding - Frankfurter Buchmesse, which opens tomorrow, is all this, said Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, Chairwoman of the Börsenverein des Deutschen Buchhandels (German Publishers & Booksellers Association) at the press conference to mark the opening of the fair. "In a world where ever deeper divides are emerging between political, cultural and ideological attitudes, the book fair creates a space for peaceful, democratic exchange", said Schmidt-Friderichs. The book sector takes its social mission very seriously, she said: "Publishing houses and bookstores are keen to ensure a comprehensive supply of literature, non-fiction and scientific literature, especially during these uncertain times."

At the same time, she emphasised how rising energy costs, resource shortages and a noticeable consumer reluctance to buy were putting publishers, bookstores and the industry's logistics under considerable pressure. Bookstores are expecting energy costs to rise by up to 300 per cent. Publishers, who have already had to pay about 50 per cent more for printing and producing their books this year, are expecting further increases of 20 to 30 per cent in the coming year. According to Schmidt-Friderichs, the sector is facing a frosty autumn and winter.

Less footfall in the city centres and poor consumer sentiment is also starting to have an impact on the book trade. September was the fifth month in a row with declining turnover for the book market. After nine months, the results in the central sales channels are 2 per cent below those of a normal, i.e. non-covid year like 2019, according to Media Control. In local bookstores, the gap is significantly larger: here, after three quarters, the shortfall in turnover compared to the pre-pandemic level is 8.7 per cent.

Support is now needed from policy makers, says Karin Schmidt-Friderichs. Only if the sector is economically stable can it continue to contribute to the internal stability of society. "The book sector has proved remarkably resilient over the past two years. However, the unstable world and market situation presents it with new major challenges. The sector urgently needs compensatory measures from the government in order to continue to fulfil its societal mission as before," said Schmidt-Friderichs.

Specifically, the book sector requests:

- that the subsidies for publishers agreed in the coalition agreement are implemented swiftly,
- that financial support is granted to the book trade for its cultural events and the promotion of reading,
- that the new opportunities for VAT reductions afforded by the EU finance ministers are utilised,
- and that relief packages and financial aid to business are conceived in such a way that even crisis-stricken publishing houses and bookstores can access them.
