High-ranking visitors in Frankfurt: The 74th Frankfurter Buchmesse (19-23 October 2022) will open in the presence of the Spanish royal couple, King Felipe VI and Queen Letizia, and Germany's President Frank-Walter Steinmeier. The announcement was made today by Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse, at a press conference. Other speakers at the fair's Opening Ceremony will include representatives of the State of Hesse and the City of Frankfurt am Main, the chairwoman of the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, and the literary keynote speakers from Spain, Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina. The Opening Ceremony will take place on Tuesday, 18 October 2022, in front of an audience of invited guests and will be streamed live.

"A booming book market, a vibrant multilingualism and multifaceted literatures: 31 years after its first appearance as Guest of Honour, Spain is once again inviting book fair visitors to become acquainted with the cultural richness of Europe's third largest country," said Juergen Boos. "And there will be much to discover: The delegation from Spain will include some 200 authors, translators and creatives – proven experts on the country's contemporary literatures. Under the motto 'Creatividad Desbordante – Spilling Creativity', the Guest of Honour Pavilion will offer a space for interaction and exchange: It is designed to be a living dictionary that connects words, languages and stories. I am much looking forward to experiencing it and am very pleased that the Spanish royal couple and Germany's president will be taking this opportunity to visit Frankfurter Buchmesse." Some of Spain's most compelling literary voices will be present at the book fair, including Rosa Montero, Arturo Pérez Reverte, Elvira Lindo, Manuel Vilas, Javier Cercas, Elvira Sastre, Daniel Gascón, José Carlos Llop and writer Cristina Morales, who also attended the press conference in Frankfurt.

Many people have said this year that a new era has begun – in view of Russia's devastating and illegal war of aggression against Ukraine, which has displaced millions and claimed countless lives. Under the motto "What can they do to us as long as we hear each other", Ukrainian voices and topics will define the programme at the Frankfurt Pavilion in the Agora on the Friday and Saturday of the fair (21-22 October 2022).

Serhiy Zhadan, Katja Petrowskaja, Kateryna Mishchenko, Nataliya Gumenyuk, Peter Pomerantsev, Aliona Karavai, Andrey Kurkov and Karl Schlögel are just some of the writers, voices and experts from Ukraine and around the world who will discuss topics such as culture, culture policy and the media in times of war. The programme will also include readings and musical performances. Ukrainian-German author Katja Petrowskaja will speak about how Ukraine is perceived in Europe. Publisher Kateryna Mishchenko will share her perspectives and experiences as a woman caught up in war and as a refugee. Ukrainian gallery owner Aliona Karavai will discuss cultural policy in wartime. Andrey Kurkov and Ljubov Yakymchuk will talk about the attack on plural identities in Ukraine. And Ukrainian writer, poet and translator Serhiy Zhadan, winner of the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade, will read a selection of poetry. The programme is being curated by the Federal Agency for Civic Education, Goethe-Institut Ukraine and Frankfurter Buchmesse in cooperation with the Ukrainian Book Institute. All visitors to the fair are invited to join the discussion.

Is resistance to the Putin regime possible? Many members of Russia's opposition have been forced to flee the country and are now organising their protests against the regime from their places of exile – Leonid Volkov, for example, the opposition politician and close confidant of dissident Alexei Navalny, who has been imprisoned since January 2021. In his new book Putinland, Volkov analyses the brutal imperialist dynamics of Russia under Putin, showing what people in Germany and Europe have chosen not to see.

Throughout Europe, antidemocratic and right-wing extremist tendencies are gaining strength. Nancy Faeser, Germany's minister of the interior, and Thomas Haldenwang, president of the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution, took note of this disturbing development a few months ago when they presented the national intelligence report in Berlin: right-wing extremism remains the largest threat to democracy in Germany. This has become particularly clear following the discovery of right-wing extremist groups among the police and in the military, and after racist terrorist attacks such as those in the German cities of Hanau and Halle. How is it possible to fight an antidemocratic movement with an extensive network that is impacting German society? Which instruments in the political and legal spheres and in civil society can be used to defend the country? How can people be protected from attack? A roundtable discussion with experts and individuals affected by right-wing extremism will discuss the responsibility that journalists, government officials, society, the book fair and the publishing industry have and which changes must be initiated now.

They are raising their voices on behalf of minority rights and representation and in favour of social diversity: myriad authors are taking a clear position in their books, calling for change. In Frankfurt, Alok Vaid-Menon, Elena Medel, Luisa Neubauer, Tupoka Ogette, Sasha Marianna Salzmann, Mithu Sanyal, Josephine Apraku, Maja Göpel and Ann Mbuti will share their ideas for transforming the world.

In 2022, the world's crises seem more threatening than ever. How do today's young people view the future — and which ideas do creatives, thought leaders and people engaged in the cultural sector have that can shape it? Broadcaster ARTE is therefore asking "And now?" and thereby launching a discussion of the state of Europe and its shared values. Over 70,000 people from Germany, France, Belgium and Austria have already participated in the "And now?" survey, which will run until the book fair: www.undjetzt-festival.de.

From Europe to Africa: the collective stand of the Africa Publishing Innovation Fund will be participating in Frankfurter Buchmesse for the first time. Founded in 2019, the fund has made $800,000 available to support both innovators in Africa's publishing industry and library projects. Publishers from a number of African countries will be present at the collective stand in Hall 4.1 H 102.

As part of the Invitation Programme that Frankfurter Buchmesse has been organising for over 50 years with funding from Germany's Federal Foreign Office, 20 small and mid-sized independent publishers from Africa, the Arab World, Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean and Eastern Europe will exhibit at this year's book fair in Frankfurt. The publishers from Argentina, Azerbaijan, Colombia, Cuba, Guinea, Haiti, Iran, Nigeria, Singapore and Togo will have a wide range of literary voices in tow. More information is available at: www.buchmesse.de/en/fellowship-and-grant-programmes/invitation-programmes Frankfurter Buchmesse is using the campaign Translate. Transfer. Transform. to put a spotlight on translating — an activity that takes place behind the scenes, but without which people could never understand each other. The focus is not only on literary translations, but also on translating as a communicative act. Even the adaptation of literary material is a form of media transfer. The topic of translation runs like a thread through all areas of the book fair: translation rights are a key topic at the Literary Agents & Scouts Centre (LitAg), every year an extensive funding programme is used to support the translation of works from the Guest of Honour country. Together with VdÜ, Germany's translators' association, a multifaceted programme is being organised for the International Translation Centre (Hall 4.0): this is where calls will be heard to increase the visibility of editors and translators and discussions will take place on how Arabic literature is received in Europe. Other topics include sensitivity reading and post-colonial translation along with issues such as translations for the visually impaired and the challenges of translating slang into another language — for instance, for comics.

All events will be accessible shortly at www.buchmesse.de/en/visit/calendar-events. Please note that the calendar is updated on a regular basis. The Frankfurter Buchmesse app for iOS and Android can be downloaded from mid-September.

Frankfurt am Main, 8 September 2022

What's new at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022?

Every book fair is different. To ensure you can keep track of everything that's happening we've assembled the most important information here.

App for #fbm22

Practical, fast and always up to date, the official app for Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022 displays all events at the fair. The personal appointment calendar with reminder function will keep you on track, and the matchmaking tool for trade visitors provides you with new contacts. Thanks to an ISBN scanner, book titles can be read electronically and automatically saved in your list of personal favourites. The Frankfurter Buchmesse app for both IOS and Android can be downloaded free of charge as of mid-September. <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/app>

Awareness Team

An Awareness Team, consisting of members of the Bund für Antidiskriminierungs- und Bildungsarbeit e.V. (BDB – Association for Antidiscrimination and Education), will be on duty during the fair. The team will be located in the foyer of Hall 4.0. Visitors who feel they have been insulted, excluded, threatened or degraded while at the fair for reasons to do with an identity, or characteristics attributed to them, can contact the awareness team directly or by phone (0152 587 84634). Members of the Frankfurter Buchmesse team and security staff can also be approached at any time.

BOOKFEST

This year's BOOKFEST will feature more than 40 events at 20 venues throughout Frankfurt. Audiobook Worlds, Crime Nights, Publishers' Evenings – the programme is as diverse as the authors scheduled to appear. One new addition this year: BOOKFEST extra, an evening event on 20 October at 8.00 pm at which Donna Leon will be on hand to answer questions posed by Shelly Kupferberg (Tickets: <https://www.eventim.de/eventseries/bookfest-extra-donna-leon-3201822/>). The entire BOOKFEST programme will be available online shortly: www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/public-events/bookfest

#BookTok Creation Corner and TikTok Stage in the Agora

On Sunday, 23 October 2022, the social video platform TikTok will host its own stage in the Agora from 10.00 am to 5.00 pm, bringing together some of the most popular creators, authors and publishers from the #BookTok community in discussions, workshops and performances. Initial programme highlights will be announced in the next few weeks. In the #BookTok Creation Corner, #BookTok creators will be invited to record their own videos and stream them live from the fair, allowing them to share their impressions with the community and interact with book lovers.

Code of Conduct: Ensuring a respectful environment at the fair

Frankfurter Buchmesse's Code of Conduct lays out rules for creating an appreciative and respectful environment at the book fair. The fair's organisers want to ensure everyone who attends has a positive experience — regardless of sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, sexual identity, disability, ethnic heritage, nationality, age, language, religion or worldview. No harassment or inappropriate comments will be tolerated towards visitors, exhibitors, partners or team members. The complete Code of Conduct can be found here:

www.buchmesse.de/en/about-us/code-conduct

Crypto art at the fair

At its stand in Hall 4.0 (J 88), the B3 Biennial of the Moving Image will be presenting art created specifically for the Internet. The pieces shown will be moving-image artwork by international artists who have become known for their NFTs. Not taken seriously for many years, digital art has become competitive with traditional artwork since it can now be exchanged on the digital market as an NFT.

detektor.fm: live podcast from Frankfurter Buchmesse

Podcast radio station detektor.fm is Frankfurter Buchmesse's official podcast partner. Over the course of the fair, the studio stage in THE ARTS+ area (Hall 4.0 G59) will welcome over 50 authors, including Jarvis Cocker, Sebastian Fitzek and Maja Göpel. detektor.fm will broadcast live from the fair; afterwards, the compelling conversations will be available in the N99 podcast on the detektor.fm app and at www.detektor.fm/serien/n99.

Focus on Ukraine

Ukrainian publishers and institutions will be the exhibitors at a 100-sqm collective stand which will feature its own stage (Hall 4.0). The stand's extensive programme will highlight the current situation faced by the country's publishing industry. Ukraine's collective stand is being made possible by the cooperative efforts of Frankfurter Buchmesse, Goethe-Institut Ukraine and the Ukrainian Book Institute. In conjunction with the book fair, the journal OSTEUROPA (Berlin) is dedicating the publication Kultur in Zeiten des Krieges (Culture in Times of War) to Ukraine. Contributors to the 500-page compendium shed light on the country's multifaceted culture.

Frankfurt Audio: Networking thanks to the Audio Ambassador

Audiobooks, podcasts, audio software and audio services: some 250 square metres of the Frankfurt Audio area will be putting a spotlight on the spoken word (Hall 3.1). More than 20 German-speaking exhibitors will be present at the IG Hörbuch collective stand; other international players such as Spotify, Zebralution, Beat Technology, Bookwire, Pozotron, I-Contact, Saga Egmont and Blackstone Publishing Audio will have their own stands or workstations in the area. New this year is a special service for exhibitors and trade visitors: as the book fair's Audio Ambassador, Matthäus Cygan, consultant for media and audio publishing, will be networking interested parties with audio companies at the IG Hörbuch collective stand (Hall 3.1 K 61) from Wednesday to Friday (19–21 October).

Frankfurt Pavilion: The stage for culture and politics at Frankfurter Buchmesse

It hasn't been seen for two years, but this autumn the eye-catching wooden structure designed by architects schneider+schumacher will once again be a commanding presence in the Agora – and beyond. This year, the Frankfurt Pavilion will feature a programme of cultural and political events curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse and its partners that will address many current issues, helping shape the discourse at this year's book fair. Scheduled topics include democracy's ability to defend itself, diversity in the media and culture industry, Russia's war of aggression against Ukraine, the Russian opposition in exile, Afghanistan today, Europe's future and its literatures, current challenges facing translators, the climate and economics, and many more. On Sunday, the programme at the pavilion will focus on media for children and young adults and on audiobooks. The complete list of events will be announced shortly.

Media partners are ARTE, Financial Times, Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Süddeutsche Zeitung and taz – die tageszeitung. Additional partners: Goethe-Institut Germany, Goethe-Institut Ukraine, bpb – Federal Agency for Civic Education, Institut Français Berlin, Litprom e.V., Freedom of Expression Committee at the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, European Union Prize for Literature (EUPL), among others.

German government at the fair

Germany's federal government will have its own stand at Frankfurter Buchmesse (Hall 3.1 E 30 and E 31). Staff members from the Federal Press Office are looking forward to speaking with visitors, who can experience the stand's interactive elements. Various quiz sessions will allow members of the public to test their knowledge of politics and current events. During moderated panel discussions, guests from politics and society will shed light on topics such as the changes resulting from the war in Ukraine and how people can respond to disinformation.

Guest of Honour Spain

Spain is the Guest of Honour country at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022. Under the motto "Creatividad Desbordante – Spilling Creativity", it will use its time at the fair to focus on topics like multilingualism and the importance of the Spanish language as a bridge to Latin America. On all five days of the fair, events on the two stages of the interactive Guest of Honour Pavilion (Forum, Level 1) will take a look at Spain's rich and vibrant literary and cultural landscape, offering space for exciting interactions with 200 individuals and organisations from the Southern European country. Guests will include Kiko Amat, Elena Medel, Elizabeth Duval, Rosa Montero, Cristina Morales, Sara Mesa and Fernando Aramburu, who will be presenting their existing works and new titles. Anyone who wants to learn more about current Spanish literature need not wait until October: the book fair's list of new publications includes 186 titles by Spanish authors or works about Spain itself. To view the programme: www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/guest-honour. More information on Spain as Guest of Honour is available in the press release in this press kit.

New opening hours for the general public | Book sales at the weekend

For the first time, members of the general public can visit Frankfurter Buchmesse beginning 9.00 am on Friday (21 October 2022). Book sales can also take place from this time onwards. On Saturday and Sunday (22 and 23 October 2022), visitors can purchase books and media from exhibitors at fixed retail prices.

Publishing Perspectives Forum: Expert talks on Wednesday and Thursday

At the Publishing Perspectives Forum, leading voices from the global publishing industry will discuss challenges and analyse trends transforming the sector. Speakers will include Charlie Redmayne, CEO of HarperCollins UK, Núria Cabutí, CEO of Penguin Random House Grupo Editorial, and Jonny Geller, CEO of Curtis Brown. Curated by the trade journal Publishing Perspectives in cooperation with Frankfurter Buchmesse, the two-day programme will take place on Wednesday, 19 October, from 10.00 am to 4.00 pm, and Thursday, 20 October, from 10.00 am to 4.00 pm, in Messe Frankfurt's Congress Center, Room Spektrum. Participation is free of charge. The programme is available here: <https://publishingperspectives.com/pp-forum/>

Special programme for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries

Carried out with support from Germany's Federal Foreign Office, the special programme will bring together publishers, editors, licencing managers and literary agents from Armenia, Azerbaijan, the Czech Republic, Georgia, Moldova, Poland, Romania, Slovakia and Ukraine. A total of 17 participants, nine of them from Ukraine, will interact digitally and in person at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022.

www.buchmesse.de/en/fellowship-and-grant-programmes/special-programme-publishers-ukraine

Spotlight on Africa

With its own collective stand and a seminar for publishing professionals, the International Publishers Association (IPA) is focusing on book industries and reading promotion in various African nations. The stand (Halle 4.1, H 102) will feature selected projects of the Africa Publishing Innovation Fund (<https://www.apinnovation.fund/>). The seminar on Thursday, 20 October (10.00 am to 1.30 pm) will examine a number of topics, including making publishing more inclusive, the library landscape and access to books for school students in African countries, especially during a pandemic. More information will be available shortly.

Spot on: Media partners at Frankfurter Buchmesse

New location for a proven crowd puller: this year, the ARD stage can be found once again in the Forum (Level 0), where visitors can experience bright minds discussing their books and ideas. Guests will include Leïla Slimani, Francis Fulton-Smith, Liao Yiwu and the winner of the 2022 German Book Prize. The Blue Sofa, the writers' forum jointly organised by Bertelsmann, ZDF, Deutschlandfunk Kultur and 3sat, will be back at its accustomed location in Hall 3.1. Talks are planned with some 80 authors, including Nobel laureate Abdulrazak Gurnah, Peace Prize laureate Serhiy Zhadan, Donna Leon, Péter Nádas, Fernando Aramburu, Andrej Kurkow, Ian Kershaw, David Van Reybrouck and Andrea Wulf. The German Children's Literature Award will be featured on the Blue Sofa for the first time, when nominee Kirsten Boie discusses the award with two experts from the jury. The Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung newspaper, the weekly Die Zeit and radio broadcaster Deutschlandfunk Kultur are also planning their own stage programmes. In addition, Swiss newspaper Neue Zürcher Zeitung and business magazine brand eins will each have a stand in Frankfurt. Among other topics, cultural broadcaster ARTE will dedicate an afternoon to "And Now? International Festival of the Ideas of Tomorrow" at the Frankfurt Pavilion. The programme will also feature high-profile events organised by newsweekly Der Spiegel, and Brigitte magazine.

STARTS Day: Focus on AI in a racing simulation, fake news and Antarctica Projects at the intersection of art and technology: Three projects from the pool of 2022 STARTS Prize winners and nominees will be featured in THE ARTS+ area and during STARTS Day on Friday, 21 October (<https://starts.eu/>).

The Glass Room (Hall 4.0 F 30): Misinformation, disinformation and conspiracy theories – what makes information reliable or dodgy? The exhibition "The Glass Room" will be open on all five days of the fair.

Gran Turismo Sophy™: 21 October, 11.00 am – noon, Frankfurt Studio

Deep learning and algorithms: how do you develop an artificial intelligence that wins against the best drivers in the most successful racing-simulation video game Gran Turismo® Sport? Kaushik Subramanian, senior research scientist at Sony AI, will speak with Holger Volland, member of the board of brand eins and author (Die Zukunft ist smart. Du auch? / The Future Is Smart? Are You?). Gran Turismo Sophy™ has already been reviewed in the scientific journal Nature.

Antarctic Resolution: 21 October, noon – 1.00 pm, Frankfurt Studio

What do we know about Antarctica and how can we protect it? From chemists and climate scientists to logistics managers: 150 experts on Antarctica from various disciplines have contributed their knowledge to the book Antarctic Resolution (Lars Müller Verlag). Speakers: Guilia Foscari (architect and founder of UNLESS), publisher Lars Müller and creative director Marco Cendron (POMO).

Transform Diversity: Trade conference on books for children and young adults

What makes a good children's book? How are stories for young readers told today? And what role does diversity play in this context? These and other topics are the focus of the Frankfurt Kids Conference, curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse, which will take place this year for the first time as part of the book fair. Experts from the publishing industry will be joined by representatives of children's and youth organisations to discuss children's books in a socio-political context and from an international perspective. Speakers will include Peter Warwick, President and CEO of Scholastic; Loulou Drinkwaard and D'Avellonne van Dijk, founders of Wilde Haren (Netherlands); illustrator Anete Melece (Latvia); and literary agent Anja Mundt, owner of Mundt Agency (Germany). Held in English, the conference will take place on Wednesday, 19 October, from 9.15 am to noon in the Congress Center, Level 3, Conference Room Illusion. Tickets and programme:

<https://www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/professional-programme/frankfurt-kids>

Translate. Transfer. Transform. – Focus on Translating

Under the motto "Translate. Transfer. Transform." Frankfurter Buchmesse is putting a special focus on the topic of translation. Together with VdÜ, the German translators' association, the organisers will be staging a diverse programme of events in the International Translation Centre (Hall 4.0 G101/G114): on Wednesday, the DIALOGMUSEUM will kick things off with the presentation Blinde Übersetzung (Blind Translation), which will consider translating from a different perspective. Additional events will focus on translating comics, nonfiction and children's and young adult literature, as well as post-colonial translations, among other topics. The visibility of translators and editors and how Arabic literature is received in Europe will also be discussed. Nina George, president of the European Writers' Council, will present the initiative Free All Words, which provides funding for the translation of works by authors from Ukraine and Belarus. The International Translation Centre's partners are European literary organisations such as Czech Lit, ENLIT, FILI, Goethe-Institut, Litprom e.V., the Slovenian Book Agency, Die Weltlesebühne e.V. and others.

The complete programme will be accessible shortly on the Frankfurter Buchmesse website and in the online Calendar of Events. More information is also available in the press release included in this press kit.

PRESS INFORMATION

Focus on Ukraine: Voices and events at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2022
100-sqm collective stand with stage / Many authors to appear, including Katja
Petrowskaja, Serhiy Zhadan, Kateryna Mishchenko

Culture in a time of war — Frankfurter Buchmesse (19-23 October 2022) will put a special focus on Ukraine in 2022. Ukrainian publishers and institutions will be exhibiting at a 100-square-metre collective stand, which will have its own stage (Hall 4.0 B 114). In addition, important voices from the Ukrainian book industry will be given a forum in the Frankfurt Pavilion. There will also be a trade programme for publishing professionals from Ukraine and neighbouring countries, the awarding on Sunday of the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade to Ukrainian writer Serhiy Zhadan, and a joint fundraising campaign for Ukrainian industry members in acute need.

"Frankfurter Buchmesse has maintained close ties to the Ukrainian book industry for many years," says Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse. "We therefore want to offer direct support to our Ukrainian colleagues now, as they withstand the Russian attack. As an annual meeting place for the industry, we are especially keen to give the Ukrainian book trade worldwide visibility."

"For many months now, there has been no room for 'normality' for the Ukrainian book industry. We are therefore pleased that Frankfurter Buchmesse is offering Ukrainian publishers, authors, translators and illustrators the opportunity to return to their book and literary lives and make their voices heard, at least for the days that the fair is taking place. Ukrainian voices will be presented on several different stages and some exhibitors from Ukraine will also be present at the fair," says Fabian Mühlthaler, Director of the Goethe-Institut Ukraine. "The Ukrainian country stand in Hall 4.0 (B 114) will have its own stage with a professional and public programme in English and German on all days of the fair. The programme is curated by the Ukrainian Book Institute and the Goethe-Institut Ukraine and is funded as part of a comprehensive package of measures for which the Federal Foreign Office is providing funds, from the Supplementary Budget 2022, to mitigate the consequences of the Russian war of aggression against Ukraine. Furthermore, the stand would not have been possible without the significant support of Frankfurter Buchmesse."

Ukrainian literature, illustrations and trade programme

Under the motto "Perseverance in Persistence", the Ukrainian country stand in Hall 4.0 B 114 will not only showcase literature from Ukraine across 100 square metres, but it will also be offering a programme for trade and general visitors on its own stage every day during the fair. The programme is being curated by the Ukrainian Book Institute in close cooperation with Goethe-Institut Ukraine. Two exhibitions related to Ukraine will also be found in Hall 4.0: In its 60-square-metre space at stand G 102, the Ukrainian illustrators' group Pictoric will display illustrations about life before the war and about the war itself. By making a donation, visitors can acquire postcards and posters by the exhibited illustrators. At its stand (Hall 4.0 H 94), Mystetskyi Arsenal Museum from Kyiv will present an exhibition on the war's impact on Ukrainian art and culture. The curator is Olia Zhuk, the museum's deputy director of Contemporary Art and Museum Affairs. In March, Zhuk filled the Frankfurter Buchmesse Instagram account with images of her everyday life during the war, in the form of an Instagram takeover. Additional exhibitors from Ukraine include the comics publisher Vovkulaka (Hall 4.1 H 101) and its publishing (Hall 3.1 K 112), which is organising a collective stand for six Ukrainian art publishers. Frankfurter Buchmesse is supporting the exhibiting Ukrainian institutions and publishers by providing space for their stands at a reduced rate.

"What can they do to us as long as we hear each other" – Ukrainian voices and topics at Frankfurt Pavilion

Serhiy Zhadan, Katja Petrowskaja, Kateryna Mishchenko, Aliona Karavai, Timothy Snyder, Serhii Plokhyy, Karl Schlögel and many others: writers, voices and experts from Ukraine and all over the world will give shape to the programme on Friday and Saturday (21-22 October 2022) at the Frankfurt Pavilion and the Agora – the open space in the centre of the fair. In addition to readings and musical performances, the focus on Ukraine will include discussions of culture, cultural policy and media in times of war, and women in war and as refugees. For example, Ukrainian-German writer, literary scholar and journalist Katja Petrowskaja, winner of the Ingeborg Bachmann Prize, will discuss how Ukraine is perceived in Europe. Writer, publisher and translator Kateryna Mishchenko will talk about women in war and as refugees. Ukrainian gallery owner Aliona Karavai will speak on the topic of cultural policy in times of war. Historians Timothy Snyder (Yale), Serhii Plokhyy (Harvard) and Karl Schlögel (formerly Konstanz and Frankfurt/Oder) will discuss Ukraine's annihilation as the goal of Russia's war. And Ukrainian author, poet and translator, Serhiy Zhadan, recipient of the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade, will read a selection of poetry. The programme is being jointly curated by the Federal Agency for Civic Education, Goethe-Institut Ukraine and Frankfurter Buchmesse. All visitors to the fair are invited to join in the discussions.

Ukrainian writer Serhiy Zhadan to receive 2022 Peace Prize of the German Book Trade

The Foundation Council has chosen Ukrainian author and musician Serhiy Zhadan to receive the 2022 Peace Prize of the German Book Trade. The award ceremony will be held on Sunday, 23 October 2022, in St Paul's Church in Frankfurt. The ceremony will be broadcast live at 10.45 am on the ARD television network. Born on 23 August 1974 in Starobilsk in Ukraine's Luhansk region, Zhadan is a writer, translator and musician. He is one of the most important, innovative and recognised voices in contemporary Ukrainian literature. Comprising novels, poems, short stories, reportage and essays, his diverse literary oeuvre focuses on the time following the demise of the Soviet Union and the war that has been ongoing in Ukraine since 2014.

Special programme for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries

Frankfurter Buchmesse has a long tradition of holding workshops for publishers in Central and Eastern Europe, one that goes back to the early 1990s. Another instalment of the successful summer academy for publishers from Central and Eastern Europe was scheduled for Kyiv this summer, but the ongoing war unfortunately prevented Frankfurter Buchmesse and its local partners, International Book Arsenal Festival and Goethe-Institut Ukraine, from conducting the academy as planned. However, we are organising a special programme at the book fair for publishers from Ukraine and neighbouring countries, with financial support from Germany's Federal Foreign Office.

Special issue of OSTEUROPA

The academic journal OSTEUROPA (Berlin) is dedicating its special issue Kultur in Zeiten des Krieges (Culture in Times of War) to the topic of Ukraine. Contributors to the 500-page publication present the country's multifaceted culture, which was ignored in Germany for decades or misinterpreted as "Russian" regardless of whether the field was classical music, film or avant-garde visual arts. Thanks to the quality of the authors from A (as in Yuri Andrukhovych) to Z (as in Serhiy Zhadan), Ukrainian literature has demonstrated its intrinsic value and gained international recognition. Some of the publication's topics include analyses of the book market, books for children and young adults, and book art. Publishers from Kharkiv, Kyiv und Lviv report on producing books in times of war. And case studies on the destruction of archives, libraries, museums and technical infrastructure show that Russia's war of aggression is also aimed at obliterating Ukraine's cultural and historical heritage and its identity. Fundraising campaign for Ukraine's book industry

As part of the German Publishers & Booksellers Group, Frankfurter Buchmesse continues to call for support for the Ukrainian book industry. Donations aid Ukrainian industry members in acute need. “Creatividad Desbordante” – Guest of Honour Spain
Spain’s appearance features strong voices and linguistic diversity

This year’s Guest of Honour presents its varied literature at Frankfurter Buchmesse | Delegation of 200 to travel to Frankfurt | Spanish royal couple will visit the fair | Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina to speak at Frankfurter Buchmesse opening ceremony | Programme showcases multilingualism and diversity | Strong female voices | Cultural programme in the city

Spain’s abundant creativity at Frankfurter Buchmesse

Under the motto “SPAIN – Spilling Creativity”, a 200-member delegation from this year’s Guest of Honour country will travel to the book fair in October. Those coming to Frankfurt will include the country’s most exciting literary voices and creatives, such as Kiko Amat, Elena Medel, Elizabeth Duval, Rosa Montero, Sara Mesa and Fernando Aramburu, who will present their existing works and new titles. By the end of the year, over 400 books will have appeared on the German-language market since 2019 to mark Spain’s appearance as Guest of Honour.

“We are delighted that our Guest of Honour this year, Spain, will be presenting its considerable literary and linguistic diversity and all the facets of its creativity at the book fair,” says Juergen Boos, president and CEO of Frankfurter Buchmesse. “The country’s multilingualism will play a leading role: in addition to Castilian, one-quarter of the authors coming to Frankfurt write in Catalan, Galician or Basque. Strong female voices will also be present at the fair, thanks to authors such as Cristina Morales, Elvira Sastre, Esther Paniagua and Elena Medel, voices that deal with current topics such as the power of the Internet, the role of women, and the importance of motherhood and relationships in the 21st century. The fair’s visitors will have the opportunity to become better acquainted with Spanish literature, the country’s authors and the socio-political issues that Spain’s creative scene is currently addressing.”

Royal visit from Spain at Frankfurter Buchmesse

King Felipe VI and Queen Letizia of Spain have announced they will visit the book fair in Frankfurt, adding a crowning touch to Spain’s presence at the fair. The royal visit underscores the literary, cultural and political significance of the country’s appearance as Guest of Honour at Frankfurter Buchmesse.

Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina to speak at opening of Frankfurter Buchmesse

The authors Irene Vallejo and Antonio Muñoz Molina will speak at the opening ceremony of Frankfurter Buchmesse. Vallejo’s book Papyrus (2022, Diogenes), in which she describes the history of the world in books, was an enormous success in Spain and has been translated and honoured many times over. Muñoz Molina is also a multi-award-winning writer and journalist. In 2013, he received the Premio Príncipe de Asturias de las Letras. Most recently, his novels Gehen allein unter Menschen (Penguin, 2021) and Tage ohne Cecilia (Penguin, 2022) have appeared in German.

Programme on the fairgrounds showcases multilingualism and diversity

The Guest of Honour Pavilion, the centrepiece of Spain's programme at Frankfurter Buchmesse, is being created this year by the Spanish architecture and design studio ENORME from Madrid, together with the design team Vitamin. Its conceptual approach "The Theory of Cherries" originates with Spanish author Carmen Martín Gaité, who has said that stories are like cherries: when you take one, the next follows automatically.

The aim is for the fair's visitors to become part of Spanish literature and culture for five days: across more than 2,000 sqm, the Guest of Honour Pavilion will offer not only books, readings and exchanges on topics related to the book trade, but also exciting insights into Spain's creative industry. Thanks to artificial intelligence, the pavilion's walls will fill up like the pages of an oversized book with words and text fragments heard during the fair, and words will morph into multihued worlds of colour. The pavilion will provide spaces for listening, reading, interacting and relaxing, along with room for quiet reflection. Moreover, the pavilion's programme will feature major writers of fiction, including Rosa Montero, Arturo Pérez Reverte, Elvira Lindo and Manuel Vilas. Star author Javier Cercas will join Daniel Gascón and José Carlos Llop to talk about "The Past as Fiction" (19 October, 1.00 pm).

In addition to the pavilion, visitors will be able to experience the Guest of Honour country every day of the fair throughout the fairgrounds. More than 320 exhibitors from Spain will be present at the fair. In Hall 4.1 a number of comunidades autónomas will have their own stands: the Basque Country, Galicia, Catalonia and Valencia, along with newcomers Asturias and Andalusia. In Hall 3.0, Spanish illustrators will be introducing themselves, and the Valencia World Design Capital will put in an appearance at THE ARTS+. Spain will also be well represented at the agents' centre (LitAg, Hall 4.2), where the country will have the third largest presence behind the United Kingdom and the United States.

Strong female voices from Spain

Spain's appearance this year as Guest of Honour will be distinguished by strong female voices. Young authors such as Cristina Morales, Elvira Sastre, Katixa Agirre and Elena Medel will reflect on the role of women, the significance of motherhood, and relationships in the 21st century. Paloma Chen, Nadia Hafid and Margaryta Yakovenko will represent the new literary generation of authors from Asia and Europe, while Ada Salas, Ángela Segovia and Raquel Lanseros will exemplify Spain's new generation of poets. María Hesse, Núria Tamarit and Elisa McCausland will present graphic and illustrated novels at the fair. Also planned is a tribute to Almudena Grandes.

Literary and cultural programme in Frankfurt showcases Guest of Honour

Spanish authors will also put in appearances beyond the fairgrounds, for example as part of the OPEN BOOKS reading festival, which is focusing on literature from the 2022 Guest of Honour country. A total of three Spanish-themed events will be held at Romanfabrik: from a flamenco evening to a reading by Elvira Sastre. IG Metall will host a discussion with Isaac Rosa, José Ovejero and Rosa Ribas. Frankfurt's municipal library is cooperating with Weltlesebühne e.V. to offer the workshop "Transparent Translating", dedicated to the book When I Sing, Mountains Dance by Irene Solà, along with readings in school libraries by Elia Barceló, Aina Bestard, Rocío Bonilla, Patxi Zubizarreta and Jokin Mitxelena. The city's museums are also showing how Spain spills over with creativity. Exhibitions and events at Frankfurter Kunstverein (Twelve Art Stories Told from Spain), Fotografie Forum Frankfurt (Carlos Pérez Siquier), Portikus, Künstlerhaus Mousonturm and, of course, Instituto Cervantes — all of which showcase this year's Guest of Honour — will make it possible for visitors to experience Spain while never leaving Frankfurt.

#fbm22: Trade programme with international industry leaders

Focus on audio publishing, literary translations and media for children and young adults / Expert talks with Charlie Redmayne, Núria Cabutí, Jonny Geller, Ashleigh Gardner, Peter Warwick, Michael Tamblyn and many others

What challenges does the book industry currently face, and what trends are emerging? Which areas of the publishing business offer the greatest growth potential, and which markets are industry players focusing on? How can books and digital formats be made more diverse and inclusive, and how can access to content be improved? Those are just some of the issues representatives from the international publishing, film, games and creative industries will discuss at this year's Frankfurter Buchmesse (19 – 23 October 2022). From top executives of major publishing houses to innovation drivers active in growth markets and related sectors: participants in the book fair's international trade programme will appear live on the fair's various stages and digitally prior to the fair, offering inspiring discussions and insightful expertise on topics that are transforming the industry.

Frankfurt Audio: Focus on audio books, podcasts, audio software and audio services

Some 250 square metres of the Frankfurt Audio area will be putting a spotlight on the spoken word (Hall 3.1). More than 20 German-speaking exhibitors will be present at the IG Hörbuch collective stand; other international players such as Spotify, Zebralution, Beat Technology, Bookwire, Pozotron, I-Contact, Saga Egmont and Blackstone Publishing Audio will have their own stands or workstations in the area. Selected events will offer insight into the audio market and impart insider knowledge: On Thursday, 20 October, Spotify will host an expert talk in the Frankfurt Studio (4.00 – 5.00 pm, Hall 4.0, Europa Room), and at the Publishing Perspectives Forum, Jens Klingelhöfer, CEO and co-founder of Bookwire, Nathan Hull, chief strategy officer of Beat Technology, and Ama Dadson, CEO and founder of AkooBooks Audio, will discuss the latest developments in audio publishing's retail landscape (20 October, noon – 12.45 pm, Congress Center, Room Spektrum). These highlights will be accessible from mid-September in the online Calendar of Events at www.buchmesse.de. New this year is a special service for exhibitors and trade visitors: as the book fair's audio ambassador, Matthäus Cygan, consultant for media and audio publishing, will be networking interested parties with audio companies at the audiobook collective stand (Hall 3.1 K 61) from Wednesday to Friday (19 – 21 October).

Promoting diversity: Trade conference on media for children and young adults

What makes a good children's book? How are stories for young readers told today? And what role does diversity play in this context? These and other topics are the focus of the Frankfurt Kids Conference, curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse, which will take place this year for the first time as part of the book fair. On Wednesday, 19 October, experts from the publishing industry will be joined by representatives of children's and youth organisations to discuss children's books in a socio-political context and from an international perspective. Speakers will include Peter Warwick, President and CEO of Scholastic; Loulou Drinkwaard and D'Avellonne van Dijk, founders of Wilde Haren (Netherlands); illustrator Anete Melece (Latvia); and literary agent Anja Mundt, owner of Mundt Agency (Germany). US author and translator Lawrence Schimel will serve as the event's moderator. Held in English, the conference will take place on 19 October from 9.15 am to noon in the Congress Center, Level 3, Conference Room Illusion.

Publishing Perspectives Forum: International expert talks on Wednesday and Thursday

At this year's Publishing Perspectives Forum, leading voices in the global publishing industry – from top executives of multinational companies to influential entrepreneurs and small business owners – will discuss and analyse industry challenges and trends. Speakers will include Charlie Redmayne, CEO of HarperCollins UK; Núria Cabutí, CEO of Penguin Random House Grupo Editorial (Spain); Jonny Geller, CEO of Curtis Brown (UK); Liz Ferguson, senior vice president of Research Publishing, at Wiley (UK); David Taylor, senior vice president at the Ingram Content Group; Shereen Kreidieh, publisher at Asala Books (Lebanon); Thomas Kraushaar, publisher at Klett-Cotta (Germany); and Wil Harris, CEO of Unbound (UK). Curated by the international trade magazine Publishing Perspectives in cooperation with Frankfurter Buchmesse, the two-day programme will take place on Wednesday, 19 October from 10 am to 4 pm, and on Thursday, 20 October, from 10 am to 4 pm, in Messe Frankfurt's Congress Center, Room Spektrum. Participation is free of charge. For more on the programme: <https://publishingperspectives.com/pp-forum/>

Frankfurt Studio: Industry events from Wednesday to Friday

Talks with CEOs, current data and accessibility, science publishing and AI

Discussions with experts and events for publishing professionals will make up the programme at the Frankfurt Studio (Hall 4.0, Europa Room) from Wednesday to Friday (19–21 October 2022). CEOs of major publishing houses and international industry players will be taking questions from the trade press on Wednesday, 19 October. From noon to 1.00 pm, Jesús Badenes del Río, CEO of the Planeta publishing group (Spain), will speak with Porter Anderson, editor-in-chief of Publishing Perspectives. Ashleigh Gardner, Senior Vice President, Managing Director Global Publishing, Wattpad WEBTOON Studios (Canada/Korea), and Michael Tamblyn, CEO of Kobo Rakuten (Canada), will be on hand from 2.00 to 3.00 pm to answer questions during the Global 50 CEO Talk. Publishing consultant Rüdiger Wischenbart will serve as moderator for the event; representatives of the international trade press will pose questions to both CEOs. At the Book Fair Directors' Talk on Friday, 21 October, from 1.00 pm to 2.00 pm, Juergen Boos, president of Frankfurter Buchmesse, Eva Orúe, director of Feria del

Libro Madrid, and other book fair executives will discuss the challenges and opportunities associated with the publishing industry's biggest events. Facts and figures on the international book market will be presented by the Federation of European Publishers (FEP), the World International Property Organization (WIPO) and the trade journal buchreport (19 October, 10.30 – 11.00 am, 11.00 – noon and 1.00 – 2.00 pm). Speakers at the WIPO event will include Bodour Al Qasimi, president of IPA; Ronald Schild, CEO of MVB, and Kevin Fitzgerald, director of Digital Outreach at WIPO. How to make publishing more accessible will be the focus of the event "Accessibility in Action", organised by the European bookfairs' network Aldus Up (19 October, 3.00 – 4.00 pm). On Thursday, 20 October, everything will revolve around science publishing: from noon to 3.00 pm, Wiley-VCH, ProQuest, Taylor & Francis and Copyright Clearance Center (CCC) will be hosting a range of talks by industry professionals. How do you develop an AI application? What's behind the innovative "deep reinforcement learning" technology? Kaushik Subramanian, senior research scientist at Sony AI, will be speaking on Friday, 21 October (11.00 am – noon), with Holger Volland, board member of brand eins and author, on the development of Gran Turismo Sophy™ – an artificial intelligence that competes against the best drivers in the most successful racing simulation video game, Gran Turismo® Sport, which has been discussed in the science magazine Nature. The event is one of the book fair's STARTS Day happenings, which are taking place as part of the EU project STARTS.

All Frankfurt Studio events will be accessible from mid-September in the online Calendar of Events on www.buchmesse.de. The Frankfurt Studio sessions will be recorded and posted in the Frankfurter Buchmesse media centre.

Trade programme on translation

On all five days of the fair, the topic of literary translations will take centre stage at the International Translation Centre (4.0 G 114). This is where discussions on making editors and translators more visible can be heard, along with talks will on postcolonial translations and how Arabic literature is received in Europe. Nina George, president of the European Writers' Council, will present the Free All Words initiative, which provides funding for translations of works by Ukraine and Belarussian authors. Numerous events will also be organised by the network of young literary translators affiliated with TraLaLit – Zeitschrift für übersetzte Literatur (TraLaLit – Magazine for Translated Literature). The International Translation Centre's programme is being curated by the German translators' association VdÜ and Frankfurter Buchmesse; partners include European literary organisations such as Czech Lit, ENLIT, FILI, Goethe Institute, Litprom e.V., the Slovenian Book Agency, Die Weltlesebühne e.V., and many others. More information can be found in the press release on the focus topic "Translation" included in this press kit.

Prior to the fair: digital networking at The Hof

Even before the book fair begins on the exhibition grounds, the organisers of the digital trade programme are inviting international publishing professionals to expand their knowledge and networks at a series of events. The popular digital networking format The Hof will light up computer screens for the third time in 2022. Participants can expect live music, interesting guests and new publishing contacts from around the world. On 8 September at 5.00 pm, the focus will be on tips, tricks and hacks for newcomers and regulars at Frankfurter Buchmesse. Guests will include Peter Kraus of Cleff, chief executive of the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, and Canadian bookseller Jennifer Kim, owner of Humpty Dumpty Books & Music. Under the motto "Ask Me Anything", Juergen Boos, president of Frankfurter Buchmesse, will join the session on 29 September to answer questions from digital attendees. Additional online events are planned. For more on the programme and to register: www.buchmesse.de/thehof. Participation in The Hof's online events is free of charge.

10.00 am, Room Fantasie 1 & 2 (Congress Center, Level 3)

Accredited journalists who are interested in participating should contact presse@boev.de.

STARTS Day panel: How to combine scientific work with civic movement: Presenting the STARTS Prize winner 2022 "Antarctic Resolution"

12.00 - 12.50 pm, Frankfurt Studio (Hall 4.0, Room Europa)

In this panel, moderated by Porter Anderson (Publishing Perspectives), Guilia Foscari (architect and founder of UNLESS), publisher Lars Müller and Creative Director Marco Cendron (POMO) will give insights into their work on "Antarctic Resolution" - awarded with the Grand Prize collaborative Innovation 2022 and (the encyclopaedic publication) with the DAM architectural book award 21 and the Golden Medal. Antarctic Resolution is a multidisciplinary project with the ambition of raising awareness on the pivotal importance of the Antarctic in the global ecosystem, to mobilize the general public to speak-up for Antarctica (a Global Commons without indigenous peoples). Learn how the medium book can be an important and integrated part of a multidisciplinary project, and how it can be embedded in further actions of social activism.

ARTE: Now what? An afternoon on the future of Europe

3.00 - 6.00 pm, Frankfurt Pavilion, Agora

Covid, war, climate: in 2022, the crises seem bigger than ever. How do young people in particular look to the future today - and what ideas can creatives, cultural workers and thinkers contribute? And now? -ARTE therefore asks and discusses the state of Europe and its common values.

3.10 pm 'How to talk with each other?': Filmmaker Lola Randl and author Anke Stelling in search of freedom, equality, and justice.

4.00 pm 'Sex and Power': Who or what has brought us the patriarchy? What are women doing wrong, what are men doing wrong? Are we finally on the way to real - including economic - equality of all genders? A discussion on the ARTE series "Naked: Men, Women and Much More" with writer Mithu Sanyal and anthropologist Carel van Schaik.

5.00 pm 'Now what?' Perspectives on the future by young European authors: Discussions with Ananda Klaar, Thomas Flahaut, Juan Gómez Bárcena and Ronya Othmann.

Moderator: Romy Straßenburg (ARTE TWIST).
