PRESS INFORMATION

Humanity in times of crisis: 75th Frankfurter Buchmesse opposes war and violence, hosts topical debates, invites visitors to interact with authors from all over the world and welcomes Slovenia as Guest of Honour

FBM director Juergen Boos condemns the terrorist attack on Israel | Guest of Honour: poetry in focus | Democracy Fair: political discussions with various authors and activists | New “Literature Stage” from ARD, ZDF and 3sat | Diverse anniversary events in the city | Slovenian President Nataša Pirc Musar to speak at opening ceremony

In its anniversary year, the 75th Frankfurter Buchmesse (18–22 October 2023) will offer a high-profile programme of cultural and political events – as a forum for literature and social debate. The publishing industry’s largest gathering will be opened today, Tuesday, 17 October, by the President of the Republic of Slovenia Nataša Pirc Musar. Author and philosopher Slavoj Žižek and poet and journalist Miljana Cunta will give philosophical and literary keynote addresses at the opening ceremony. The Mayor of the City of Frankfurt, Mike Josef, the State of Hesse’s Minister of State for Science and the Arts, Angela Dorn, and the Chairwoman of the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, will also speak.

“The world is coming undone,” said Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse, at today’s press conference, commenting on a globe unsettled by simultaneous crises. “We have the crisis of climate change and the crisis among Western democracies. We have been experiencing Putin’s war of aggression against Ukraine for over a year and a half. And on 7 October, Hamas’s terrorist warfare against Israel reached a whole new, terrifying level. We are all horrified. Frankfurter Buchmesse has always been about humanity; the focus is on people interacting with each other. This humanity was shattered on 7 October by the attack on Israel carried out by Hamas’s terrorists. Our sympathy goes out to the people whose loved ones have been the targets of this violence and everyone in Israel and Palestine suffering because of this war. We condemn the terror against Israel and condemn those who are financing it and thus making it possible.”

Over the five days of the fair, numerous events will explore today’s most pressing socio-political issues. As the guest speaker at the opening press conference, British science journalist and author Gaia Vince (Nomad Century) shed light on the connection between climate change and the global migrant flows that have already begun. On the main cultural policy stage in the iconic Frankfurt Pavilion, participants in upcoming discussions will include Claudia Roth, (Germany’s Federal Commissioner for Culture and the Media), Deniz Yücel (PEN Berlin), Irina Sherbakova (author and cofounder of the human rights organisation Memorial.), Dmitry Glukhovsky (Russian bestselling author in exile) and Meron Mendel (Bildungsstätte Anne Frank).

On the Frankfurt International Stage, experts from the United Nations will discuss the topic of climate change and encourage people to move from analysis to action, in keeping with the event's title: "The Era of Global Boiling – What Can We Do?" Climate activist and cofounder of the Last Generation movement, Lea Bonasera, will also be present in Frankfurt. Along with other activists, she will be participating in the programme "SHEROES – Streiterinnen für die Zukunft" (SHEROES – Fighters for the Future) on the Literature Stage hosted by broadcasters ARD, ZDF and 3sat. Other authors invited to appear this year include former Femen activist Zana Ramadani and AI expert Mina Saidze.

Fans of good stories and literary live encounters can look forward to multiple highlights at the 2023 fair. In the Frankfurt Audio area, which showcases audiobooks and podcasts, many well-known voices will be heard, such as Rufus Beck (Harry Potter) and Marc-Uwe Kling (Kangaroo Chronicles). For the first time, the very popular German political podcast Lage der Nation (State of the Nation) will make an appearance at the book fair, in Harmony Hall at the Congress Center (CMF). During "Lage Live", Philip Banse and Ulf Buermeyer will record a new episode of their successful podcast before an audience of some 2,000 people. A Literary Gala, curated by ARD, ZDF and 3sat, will also be held in the CMF and will feature Christopher Clark, Lizzie Doron, Cornelia Funke, Amir Gudarzi and Thomas Hettche. The recipient of this year's Peace Prize of the German Book Trade, Salman Rushdie, has also confirmed he will participate in the gala. Every day from 10:00 am to 6:00 pm, the latest literary developments will be presented on the Literature Stage hosted by ARD, ZDF and 3sat. Moderators Bärbel Schäfer, Denis Scheck, Knut Cordsen, Mona Ameziane, Thea Dorn, Katty Salié, Jo Schück, Vivian Perkovic, Gert Scobel and others will take the opportunity to converse with illustrious authors.

From Friday to Sunday on various stages across the fairgrounds, the Frankfurt Kids Festival will bring together renowned names from the world of children's and young adult literature. Among the stars who have announced they will participate are Margit Auer and Cornelia Funke, along with Benjamin Lacombe and Ursula Poznanski. Otfried Preußler's birthday (he would have turned 100 on 20 October 2023) will also be duly celebrated. With so many literary celebrities present, book signings are a must: the Meet the Author area in Hall 4.1 is a new event location that makes it possible for authors and fans to interact in an informal setting.

The team organising Slovenia's appearance as Guest of Honour has promised a great show for this year's fair. Some 75 authors and creatives will make up the delegation from the country that has only existed as an independent state for 32 years. In addition, there will be more than 30 publishers and institutions, an illustrators' exhibition and a wide-ranging programme of more than 70 events at the Guest of Honour Pavilion. Among the highlights there will be a talk between Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse, and Aleksander Čeferin, President of the UEFA football organisation. In terms of literature, poetry will be the focus of Slovenia's appearance at the fair, which will take place under the motto "Honeycomb of Words". The Guest of Honour programme will also have a second focus: philosophy. One much anticipated event is the specialist programme curated by publishing scholar Miha Kovač, which will take an interdisciplinary look at the topic “Higher-Level Reading”. A cultural high point in the Guest of Honour programme will be the concert by Slovenia’s most famous band, Laibach, which will perform “Alamut – Historical Symphony” in the Jahrhunderthalle. The intercultural work is based on the 1938 novel by Vladimir Bartol.

To mark its 75th anniversary, Frankfurter Buchmesse has organised special events that both put the spotlight on itself and include Frankfurt’s residents in the celebration of “their” book fair. Using the tagline “And the story goes on”, the campaign features reminiscences of the fair’s historic milestones and a preview of coming chapters. Different motifs have been appearing in a variety of forms throughout the city in recent weeks. Advertising on buses and at bus stops across Frankfurt address expected visitors and passers-by, while messages at the airport and the main train station greet arriving passengers. Since the end of September, 75 of the city’s public bookcases have been adorned with this year’s FBM logo.

PRESS INFORMATION

And the story goes on: Frankfurter Buchmesse and the City of Frankfurt make the 75th anniversary visible across the entire city area*Campaign: 75 chairs – 75 stories | 75 bookcases bear the anniversary design

In 2023, Frankfurter Buchmesse will celebrate its 75th anniversary. A reason to bring its eventful history to life once again and at the same time look expectantly to the future: under the motto "And the story goes on", the anniversary campaign - which was developed together with the Frankfurt creative agency Vier für Texas - combines the memory of historical milestones with an outlook on the next chapters. To mark the occasion, Frankfurter Buchmesse has teamed up with the City of Frankfurt to bring the history of the fair into the present and make it a tangible experience beyond the exhibition grounds. The anniversary activities in Frankfurt's city centre are sponsored by the City of Frankfurt and take place in close cooperation with City Marketing.

"Frankfurter Buchmesse and the City of Frankfurt are natural allies. We have, historically, established a very close connection. What began in 1949 as a small book show in Frankfurt's Paulskirche – with the participation of 205 German publishing companies – has established itself over the decades as the largest international book fair in Frankfurt. Every October, the world looks to Frankfurt when authors, publishing professionals, rights and licencing dealers, as well as high-ranking guests from the worlds of culture, politics and business from over 100 countries, come to Frankfurt. So basically, we are celebrating a joint 75th anniversary!", says Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse, about this cooperation.

"Every year in October, the international book fair makes Frankfurt the world capital of books, a global centre of cultural attention. On the occasion of its 75th anniversary, it shows itself in even greater splendour. I am very happy that the fair has overcome the COVID years and is thus once again ensuring literary life, outside the fairgrounds, in the city. This is Frankfurt's fifth season of the year", says Dr. Ina Hartwig, Head of the Department of Culture and Science of the City of Frankfurt am Main.

Stephanie Wüst, Head of the Economic Affairs Department of the City of Frankfurt and Chairwoman of the Supervisory Board of Messe Frankfurt, says: "Frankfurter Buchmesse is a flagship for our city and makes us proud. It transports Frankfurt's great past and present publishers, and authors, into the future. Above all, however, the book fair sets an example for diversity and freedom of opinion that is perceptible all over the world. The 75 people who have told their stories about Frankfurt and the book fair in this anniversary year bear witness to this. Frankfurt citizens and more than 300,000 visitors to the fair will be able to listen in on these stories on 16 October on Paulsplatz, and later on the fairgrounds, and find out what significance their Frankfurter Buchmesse has had on the rest of the world. I am particularly pleased that with this great project - and several others - we have succeeded in emphasising the close connection between the city and Frankfurter Buchmesse. I was therefore happy to support the 75 Chairs - 75 Stories project with City Marketing."

Over the next few weeks, the anniversary of Frankfurter Buchmesse will be visible throughout the city via a variety of activities and advertising measures.

Campaign on Paulsplatz and the exhibition grounds: 75 chairs – 75 stories

"Without Frankfurter Buchmesse and without books, my life would not have been so wonderful," says Michel Friedman, a lawyer, publicist and philosopher living in Frankfurt am Main. This formative sentence is only a small excerpt of what lies behind the "75 chairs – 75 stories" campaign. On 16 October, Paulsplatz – where the first book fair was held in 1949 – had been transformed into a place of stories: From 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., 75 chairs were distributed on the square. They led via individual QR codes to personal stories of 75 very different people and their connection with Frankfurter Buchmesse. The storytellers include well-known names as well as visitors and international book fair friends, but also people who are more active behind the scenes of the fair. From 17 to 22 October, those 75 chairs are placed on the Agora.

Bookcases bear the anniversary design

75 bookcases in the city bear the Frankfurter Buchmesse anniversary design. Over the past few weeks, surprises were added to them. Until today, admission tickets and other prizes were hidden there. Clues about this campaign were shared via the social media channels of Frankfurter Buchmesse and of the City of Frankfurt.

Classic advertising campaigns in the city

The campaign's history-conscious and future-oriented approach is also reflected in the numerous advertising initiatives: From large posters in the city and megalights on public info screens, the campaign's motifs will be played out in a variety of advertising formats: Advertising spaces on buses and train stations will attract potential visitors and passers-by throughout the city, while positioning at the airport and main train station will welcome arriving passengers.

Note: The campaign on Paulsplatz is sponsored by the Department of Economics and Law of the City of Frankfurt am Main and City Marketing. The bookcases and the advertising spaces are sponsored by the Department of Culture and Science of the City of Frankfurt am Main.

What's new at Frankfurter Buchmesse 2023?

Every book fair is different. To ensure you can keep track of it all, we've assembled the most important information here.

Aldus Up Stage in Hall 4.1

Aldus Up is the follow-up project to Aldus, the network of European book fairs. It links more than 20 European trade shows – including Frankfurter Buchmesse, London Book Fair, Buch Wien and Bologna Children's Book Fair – in order to promote internationalisation, research and innovation in the book market. This large-scale cooperation project is co-funded by the Creative Europe Programme of the European Union.

The new Aldus Up Stage in Hall 4.1 will host events on industry topics ranging from education, inclusion and sustainability to translation funding, licensing, digitalisation, AI and VR. The weekend programme focuses on education and book presentations.

<https://www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/professional-programme/stages/aldus-up-stage>

Anniversary Area in foyer of Hall 4.1 – with Congratulations Wall, Selfie Point and book tips

Frankfurter Buchmesse will be celebrating its 75th edition together with guests from all around the world. To mark the occasion, the book fair is inviting visitors to join in the celebrations in the Anniversary Area located in the foyer of Hall 4.1. Lasting memories of the visit to this year's anniversary event can be captured at the Selfie Point. Book-fair fans can immortalise themselves by leaving best wishes on the nine-metre-long Congratulations Wall. Using its social media channels, the book fair will also be inviting the BookTok and Bookstagram communities to recommend the new publications they find particularly appealing. A selection of book tips will then be presented in the Community area.

Announcement of the Young People's Word of the Year 2023

For the first time in its history, in keeping with the motto "Be fly, come by", the German Young People's Word of the Year will be announced in front of a live audience at the book fair. Before language experts discuss vocabulary and today's changing youth culture, a video will be shown presenting the Top 10 German words used by young people in 2023. At the end of the event on Sunday, the Young People's Word of the Year for 2023 will be revealed.

(22 October, Education Forum, 3.1 D12, 4:00–4:45 pm)

App for #fbm23

It's practical, fast and always up to date: the official 2023 app displays all events happening at this year's book fair. The personal appointment calendar with reminder function will keep users on track, and the matchmaking tool allows trade visitors to network with each other. Thanks to an ISBN scanner, book titles can be read electronically and then automatically saved in a list of personal favourites. The Frankfurter Buchmesse app for both IOS and Android can be downloaded free of charge. <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/app>

First joint appearance: ARD, ZDF and 3sat at Frankfurter Buchmesse

For the first time, broadcasters ARD, ZDF and 3sat are organising a joint “literature stage” at Frankfurter Buchmesse. The stage’s programme of events will take place daily from 18 to 22 October, from 10:00 am to 6:00 pm. The cultural offerings will be broadcast live and will be available on demand in the three partners’ media centres and audio libraries, and on their websites and social media channels. The livestream of events can be accessed at ardkultur.de, buchmesse.zdf.de and 3sat.de. ARD Kultur will also be offering highlights as video-on-demand and audio recordings. Articles and reports will appear in the broadcasters’ magazines and on cultural shows, such as ZDF’s “aspekte” and “Das Literarische Quartett”, 3sat’s “Buchzeit”, its “Kulturzeit” magazine, ARD’s culture magazine “tnt – titel, thesen, temperamente” and hr television’s “hauptsache kultur”. ARD’s cultural programmes on the radio and in its audio library will also feature a multifaceted programme covering the events taking place on the literary stage. The stage’s motto is “Your Book. The Best of Frankfurter Buchmesse 2023 on the Literature Stage from ARD, ZDF and 3sat”, which is also the title of jointly produced TV programme featuring highlights from the fair.

ARTE documentary: “Geist, Geschäft und Party – 75. Frankfurter Buchmesse” (ARTE/ZDF 2023)

To mark Frankfurter Buchmesse’s 75th anniversary, broadcaster ARTE has put together a documentary about the history of the most exciting, exhausting and important week of the year when it comes to books. The film “Geist, Geschäft und Party – 75. Frankfurter Buchmesse” (Minds, Business Deals and Parties – The 75th Frankfurter Buchmesse) by director Jobst Knigge is about war and new beginnings, literature that breaks down walls, death threats, protests and bestsellers, readings and parties, the joys of diving into a book, and why Frankfurt is so important for all of the above. The director of Frankfurt Buchmesse, Juergen Boos, talks about what a typical day is like. Publishers such as Michael Krüger, Antoine Gallimard and Felicitas von Lovenberg have their say, as does the Danish bestselling author Jussi Adler Olsen and many others.

Initial broadcast: 18 October 2023 at 10:50 pm; available in the ARTE media centre from 18 October until 16 January 2024.

BOOKFEST city 2023 – Events in bookshops and libraries

In its anniversary year, Frankfurter Buchmesse is dedicating BOOKFEST city to the bookshops in the Rhine-Main area and the libraries in the city of Frankfurt. During the book festival, which runs from 14 to 22 October 2023, more than 50 events will take place at almost 30 different locations. Participants will include Deborah Feldman, Boštjan Gombač, Gaby Hauptmann, Tom Hillenbrand, Nilufar Karkhiran Khozani, Guido Maria Kretschmer, Judith Merchant, Rainer Moritz, Nela Rywíková, Rüdiger Safranski, Axel Scheffler, Dirk Steffens and Otto Waalkes. The complete programme and information on tickets are available at <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/bookfest>.

Book-to-Screen Day on Friday

Which books have the potential to be turned into movies? Which genres and subjects are the producers of films and series interested in? Which steps are necessary for a book to make its way onto the cinema or TV screen? On the Friday of the fair (20 October 2023), Frankfurter Buchmesse will be putting the spotlight on film and series adaptations during Book-to-Screen Day. Numerous events will make it possible for filmmakers to interact with members of the international book industry. <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/rights-licenses/book-screen>

Comics Centre in Hall 6.1

This year, 14 publishers will be exhibiting in the new international Comics Centre. Other comics publishers, such as KOCCA, IDW and Panini, will have their own stands nearby. The centre's programming begins on Wednesday with a guided tour of the international comics publishers, including a welcome talk in the Illustrators Corner. The tour will conclude with an invitation to attend the opening of the Comics Centre at 5:00 pm. Other events being held at various locations across the fairgrounds will include signing sessions with international illustrators, tours for trade visitors, a comics matinee, a comics-to-screen matchmaking service and a weekend programme.

Education Forum with weekend programme under the patronage of Germany's education ministers | Kulturstadion in Hall 4.1

For the first time, Germany's Standing Conference of the Ministers of Education and Cultural Affairs will serve as patron for the Education Forum (3.1 D12) and its events on learning and teaching. In addition, Frankfurter Buchmesse's partnership with the educational association Bildungsmedien e.V. has been expanded: the association will now also be organising the weekend programme for the general public. Litcam's "Kulturstadion", which previously used the Education Forum to showcase its events at the weekend, is moving to the Aldus Up Stage. That's where visitors can enjoy Kulturstadion's colourful programme of events related to literature, football and society – which, this year, will also take a look at the 2024 European Football Championship. www.buchmesse.de/forum-bildung; www.litcam.de/de/kulturstadion

EU project: S+T+ARTS Day 2023 – Projects at the intersection of art and technology

This year, Frankfurter Buchmesse will again be a partner for the S+T+ARTS Prize and will host S+T+ARTS Day. Beforehand, on Wednesday, 18 October, the S+T+ARTS Prize community event "Exploring New Horizons" will take place on the Aldus Up Stage in Hall 4.1, in cooperation with the B3 Festival of the Moving Image. As part of S+T+ARTS Day on Friday, 20 October, various panel discussions will examine topics related to AI, VR, humans and the environment. Information on S+T+ARTS Day and on individual projects will be presented at stand H75 in Hall 4.1. The S+T+ARTS Prize is an initiative of the European Commission and is designed to explore the interplay of technology and artistic practice. The focus is on people and projects that can help overcome Europe's social, ecological and economic challenges. This initiative has received funding from the European's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme.

www.buchmesse.de/en/starts

Focus on artificial intelligence

The trending topic of artificial intelligence will be hotly debated at the fair – from practical experiences with AI-supported translation tools to copyright issues. Numerous speakers will be appearing on various stages, including “Forbes 30 under 30” founder Mina Saidze, linguist Naomi Baron, Shimmr AI CEO Nadim Sadek and copyright law expert Ursula Feindor-Schmidt. More information is available in the press release on the trade programme included in this press kit.

Focus topic: Democracy and Human Rights

Organised together with Germany's Federal Foreign Office, the Frankfurt Forum will take place in the Frankfurt Pavilion, the book fair's stage for cultural policy issues. This year, the focus will be on democracy and human rights. In addition, Frankfurter Buchmesse will again be cooperating with the United Nations in the year that marks both its own anniversary and that of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which is also turning 75. At the fair's opening on Wednesday, international authors will gather in the Frankfurt Studio to read selected articles from the declaration in their native languages.

Frankfurt Audio: New stage with public programme

At the weekend (21–22 October 2023), the Audio Business Lounge will be transformed into the World of Audiobooks Stage – powered by Bookwire (Hall 3.1 J25). In addition to award-winning audiobook narrator and actor Rufus Beck and actor and narrator Steffen Groth, many other authors will be participating, such as Jan Weiler, Lilly Lucas and Susanne Fröhlich. More information on Frankfurt Audio is available in the press release included in this press kit and at www.buchmesse.de/en/audio-public-programme.

Frankfurt Rights Meeting in a new hybrid format

For over 30 years, this tried-and-true event is where the book industry's rights and licensing professionals have come together to do business. In 2023, it will be happening in a new hybrid format: four sessions will be held online in September and an exclusive networking reception with a keynote address will take place on the fairgrounds on Tuesday, 17 October 2023.

www.buchmesse.de/frm

Frankfurter Buchmesse Special: Literature Gala

Organised by the book fair on Saturday, 21 October, the Frankfurter Buchmesse Special: Literature Gala will be one of the high points of this year's fair. Guests will include Salman Rushdie, Christopher Clark, Lizzie Doron, Cornelia Funke, Amir Gudarzi and Thomas Hettche. Thea Dorn and Denis Scheck will serve as hosts for the gala, whose highlights will be broadcast on the radio programme h2-kultur and on ardkultur.de. Tickets are available at www.hr-ticketcenter.de/tickets-hr/e2154572.

Guest of Honour Slovenia

Slovenia, this year's Guest of Honour, will be presenting its literary and cultural landscape at the book fair under the motto "Honeycomb of Words". Drago Jančar, Mojca Kumerdej, Goran Vojnović, Ana Marwan, Slavoj Žižek and many more: some 75 Slovenian authors, poets, philosophers and translators will put in an appearance in Frankfurt. In addition to poetry and philosophy, the Guest of Honour Pavilion (Forum, Level 1) will focus on Slovenia's close connection to nature. Numerous exhibitions and happenings throughout the city will turn Slovenia's time as Guest of Honour into a special event even beyond the fairgrounds. More information can be found in the press release included in this press kit, and at www.buchmesse.de/en/guest-honour and sloveniafrankfurt2023.com/en.

International Stage and Networking Café (Foyer, 5.1/6.1)

The new International Stage on Level 1 in the foyer between international Halls 5 and 6 will provide a platform for exchange among members of the international publishing community. Topics will include book markets in Africa and Asia and the current situation of libraries in the UK and US. At the weekend, readings by authors from around the world will take place – including Booker Prize winner Georgi Gospodinov, Nigerian author Lola Shoneyin, US author Lynn Cullen, and Lung Yingtai from Taiwan. The new Networking Café will be located directly next to the stage, allowing international trade visitors to meet existing contacts and make new ones.

Public programme: www.buchmesse.de/en/international-stage

Professional programme: www.buchmesse.de/en/highlights/professional-programme

Meet the Author Area

The Meet the Author Area in Hall 4.1 is the new event location for informal interactions between authors and fans. Benjamin Lacombe, Lexi Ryan, Rafik Schami, among others, will be available for signings and selfies at the area's tables.

The Messeturm becomes the world's largest book pile

During the week of the fair, the Messeturm will be transformed into the world's largest book pile – with the help of AR tracking technology from the Berlin software developer ZAUBAR. To do this, all you have to do is call up the link www.booktower75.com, follow the instructions and then simply point your smartphone camera at the Messe Frankfurt landmark.

New opening times for the general public | Book sales at the weekend

Members of the general public can visit the book fair as of 2:00 pm on Friday, 20 October 2023. Book sales will also be permitted as of this time. That means from Friday to Sunday (20–22 October 2023) books and media can be acquired from exhibitors at fixed retail prices. Kulturpass holders can purchase a ticket for general admission at a discount.

Podcasts at the book fair: Lage der Nation and ARTE

Germany's most popular political podcast, Lage der Nation (State of the Nation), will be appearing at the book fair when Philip Banse and Ulf Buermeyer invite listeners to "Lage Live" on Thursday evening, 19 October (Harmonie Hall, 7:00 pm. The event is sold out; media representatives who want to report on it should contact press@buchmesse.de). On Saturday, both podcast hosts will be presenting their new book on the World of Audiobooks Stage in the Frankfurt Audio Area in Hall 3.1. The ARTE podcast will also be recorded live at the fair on Friday when Jagoda Marinić speaks with author Cornelia Funke about the most important book in her life.

Publishers Rights Centre

The Publishers Rights Centre (PRC) is a newly created working area for professionals active in the rights and licensing business. It will be located directly next to the Literary Agents & Scouts Centre (LitAg) in Hall 6.2 and will open on the Tuesday before the fair.

TikTok Book Award

The official award ceremony for the first German TikTok Book Award will take place on 21 October 2023 from 6:00 to 8:00 pm in the Frankfurt Pavilion on the Agora. In addition, TikTok will have an exhibition stand in the new Meet the Author Area, where the social video platform will be offering insights for users, writers, publishers and creators, including at the panel discussion “#BookTok: Von TikTok in den Buchladen” (BookTok: From TikTok to Bookshops). Participants will include Tobias Henning, General Manager of TikTok DACH & Central Eastern Europe.

Support in case of discrimination: Awareness Team at new location

As was true last year, an Awareness Team consisting of members of the Bund für Antidiskriminierungs- und Bildungsarbeit e.V. (BDB – Association for Anti-Discrimination and Educational Work) will be on duty during the entire fair. This year, the team will be located in the foyer of Hall 4.1 next to the information stand. Visitors who feel they have been discriminated against while at the fair for reasons having to do with a characteristic attributed to them can contact the Awareness Team directly by phone (0152 587 84634) or by e-mail (AwarenessTeamBDB@bdb-germany.de). Security personnel and law enforcement officials will be on site to deal with security-related issues. For more information on BDB: <https://bdb-germany.de/>

Frankfurter Buchmesse wants to ensure everyone who attends the fair has a positive experience – regardless of gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, sexual identity, disability, ethnic heritage, nationality, age, language, religion or worldview. ## PRESS INFORMATION

“Honeycomb of Words” – Guest of Honour Slovenia
Slovenia presents its literature and culture in Frankfurt

This year’s Guest of Honour, Slovenia, will be presenting its literary and cultural landscape at the 75th Frankfurter Buchmesse under the motto “Honeycomb of Words”. Drago Jančar, Miljana Cunta, Aleš Šteger, Slavoj Žižek, Ana Marwan, Mojca Kumerdej, Goran Vojnović and many more: some 75 Slovenian authors, poets, philosophers and translators will be travelling to Frankfurt. In addition to poetry and philosophy, Slovenia’s appearance as Guest of Honour will focus on the country’s close connection to nature. Numerous exhibitions and events in the city will turn the Guest of Honour programme into a memorable experience even beyond the fairgrounds. Over 100 books have been translated since mid-2022 as part of the Guest of Honour programme for bringing Slovenian publications to the German-language market; 50 of them received funding from translation programmes.

“I’m very impressed by the programme that the Slovenian Guest of Honour team has organised,” says Juergen Boos, Director of Frankfurter Buchmesse. “In addition to talks with the country’s best-known authors of fiction and nonfiction, we’ll be inspired in Frankfurt by Slovenian poetry, listen to philosophic and scientific debates and learn more about the importance of sustainability and sports in Slovenian culture. Connections to the global publishing industry will already be apparent at the Guest of Honour Pavilion, when actors from the guest country enter into discussions with international authors and experts on the pavilion’s stages. With the Ljubljana Reading Manifesto, Slovenia is also the first Guest of Honour to put a special focus on scientific topics.”

Miljana Cunta and Slavoj Žižek to speak at the opening ceremony

Slavoj Žižek and Miljana Cunta will speak at the opening ceremony of the 75th Frankfurter Buchmesse (17 October 2023). The philosopher, psychoanalyst and cultural critic Slavoj Žižek is one of the most prominent public intellectuals of our time. He teaches philosophy at the University of Ljubljana and the European Graduate School in Saas-Fee and is currently International Director of the Birkbeck Institute for the Humanities in London. His books (most recently Too Late to Awaken: What Lies Ahead When There Is No Future?, Allen Lane, 2023) and publications have been translated into more than 20 languages. Poet, translator and editor Miljana Cunta is the author of four volumes of poetry (most recently Nekajkrat smo zašli, zdaj se vračamo [A Few Times Lost, We Now Return], Slovenska matica, 2023). Her work has been nominated for Slovenia’s most important poetry awards. She has served as programme director at the international literary festivals in Vilenica and Fabula and has been a guest columnist for the major Slovenian daily newspaper Delo.

Guest of Honour Pavilion to show Slovenia's love of nature and sustainability

Inspired by the Guest of Honour motto “Honeycomb of Words”, the Slovenian pavilion will be the venue for a wide-ranging exchange of ideas and for poetic voices. Two honeycomb-shaped auditoriums – named after the Slovenian poet Srečko Kosovel and author Maruša Krese – will host a diverse programme of poetry performances, author interviews and readings on all five days of the fair. For the first time, a Guest of Honour will be bringing 21st century tech issues to the Guest of Honour stages, thanks to its programme of compelling topics related to deep reading and AI. The international exhibition “Books on Slovenia” and its 400 titles will be located in the centre of the pavilion, along with oversized book installations and intriguing virtual features. Designed by Slovenian architecture firm Studio Sadar, the more than 2,000-square-metre Guest of Honour Pavilion (Forum, Level 1) is inspired by Slovenia's nature and consists of recycled materials that can be reused.

Major presence of Slovenian poetry

Poetry's special significance in Slovenia will also be evident in Frankfurt. Aleš Šteger, Cvetka Lipuš, Miljana Cunta, Brane Mozetič, Milan Dekleva, Barbara Korun and Ana Pepelnik are among the Slovenian poets who will put in an appearance in Frankfurt. On each day of the fair, the “Honey Hour”, complete with a poem of the day, will open the programme at the Guest of Honour Pavilion. The poetry anthology Mein Nachbar auf der Wolke (My Neighbour on the Cloud) will be presented, along with works by renowned poets such as Srečko Kosovel, Maruša Krese and Tomaž Šalamun.

Focus on philosophy: Discussions with Slovenian intellectuals

This year's Guest of Honour will be bringing contemporary philosophers and psychoanalysts of the Ljubljana School to Frankfurt. Slavoj Žižek will provide insights at the book fair into his recent book Surplus-Enjoyment. During a philosophical debate at Goethe University, Slovenian intellectuals Slavoj Žižek, Alenka Zupančič and Mladen Dolar will engage with Frankfurt School theorists Rainer Forst and Martin Saar (20 October, 7.00 pm, Adorno Auditorium VI, Campus Bockenheimer).

Sports and literature

Professional sports and literature will also converge at the book fair: at the Guest of Honour Pavilion, Slovenian Olympic swimmer Sara Isakovič will explore whether a poem, play or novel can help an athlete train better. And UEFA President Aleksander Čeferin will talk with Frankfurter Buchmesse Director Juergen Boos about what writers can learn from sportspeople and vice versa.

Ljubljana Reading Manifesto

To what extent does reading promote analytic thinking? And how do the processes in the brain differ when someone reads a text on a piece of paper or on a computer screen? Slovenia will use several events to highlight the significance of higher-level and deep reading. Created in this context, the Ljubljana Reading Manifesto has been signed by the International Publishers Association, the Federation of European Publishers, PEN International, the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions, and the German Academy for Language and Literature, and will be presented and discussed at the fair.

Artificial intelligence for texts and translations

In addition to reading and translating, the use of artificial intelligence for creating texts will be a key topic in Slovenia's programme. Author Maja Lunde, linguist Naomi Baron and others will join in the discussion. AI's role in translating texts will be explored by Darja Marinšek from the largest Slovenian publishing house Mladinska knjiga, Chris Mavergames from Wiley, and consultant and author Thad McIlroy.

Literature and culture programme in the city of Frankfurt

Some 30 renowned institutions in Frankfurt and throughout Germany will participate in the 2023 Guest of Honour's cultural programme. From art exhibitions and concerts, film screenings and readings to philosophical debates: numerous events and exhibitions will bring Slovenia's literature and culture to life beyond the book fair. For example, the Schirn Kunsthalle will be showing new works by visual artist Maruša Sagadin. On Thursday, the best-known Slovenian band, Laibach, will give an exclusive German concert with a literary theme in Frankfurt's Jahrhunderthalle (19 October, 8.00 pm). An exhibition in the Communications Museum will explore the history (and stories) of mobile phones in Slovenia and Germany. And with "Tweets from the Past", the Archaeological Museum will be inviting visitors to dive into sounds, symbols and writings from prehistoric, ancient and medieval Slovenia. The German Film Institute and Film Museum will be showing recent Slovenian short films, and the Fotografie Forum Frankfurt will present works by three contemporary Slovenian artists who experiment with photography and its boundaries.

All events on the fairgrounds and in the city can be found on the Frankfurter Buchmesse app, in the Calendar of Events (www.buchmesse.de/en/fbm23) and at <https://sloveniafrankfurt2023.com/en/events>.

Guest of Honour motto

Honeycomb of words

Slovenia is located at a unique intersection of four European language groups. Over time, through numerous playwrights, lyricists and writers, a diverse culture and language has developed that reflects European diversity and is at the same time unique and original. Like a honeycomb connected with humanity, aware of its existence and development.

Guest of Honour Pavilion

Designers: Jure Sadar and Urška Sadar (Studio Sadar)

Studio Sadar is an architecture and design studio based in Ljubljana, founded in 2021 by Jure Sadar. The office works internationally on design, cultural, commercial and residential projects.

Slovenia at the book fair

75 authors, poets, philosophers and translators from Slovenia will be travelling to Frankfurt. The Slovenian Guest of Honour Pavilion will host more than 70 events related to the country's literature and culture.

New titles: By the end of this year, more than 100 books will have been published since 2022 in the German speaking market as a result of the Guest of Honour programme.

More than 30 exhibitors from Slovenia

More than 30 exhibitors from Slovenia will present themselves at the fair. In Hall 4.1, in addition to the presence of the Slovenian Book Agency (Javna agencija za knjigo RS), the Slovenian collective stand will host 23 co-exhibitors. Also to be found in Hall 4.1 is a Slovenian illustrators' exhibition, which is coupled with a screen presence in cooperation with the Illustrators Organisation in Hall 3.0. Slovenia is further represented in this year's Comics Centre in Hall 6.1.

PRESS INFORMATION

Democratic, discursive and diverse: Politics at Frankfurter Buchmesse

Climate activist Lea Bonasera, Irina Scherbakova (Memorial) and many more

At a time when incomprehension is becoming increasingly prevalent in public discourse, Frankfurter Buchmesse offers a platform for democratic exchange. As a result, its cultural policy programme is focussing on the diversity of literature and its creators, and on providing a range of perspectives.

“The book fair is a democracy fair. Together with the German Publishers & Booksellers Association, we have been advocating for freedom of speech since 1949. This year, the presence of Salman Rushdie, who will receive the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade in Frankfurt on the last day of the fair, will lend the topic even greater weight and international visibility. Freedom of the press and freedom of expression are also being given considerable coverage in the programmes we curate ourselves,” says Torsten Casimir, spokesperson for Frankfurter Buchmesse.

Frankfurt Pavilion as a cultural policy stage

A large part of the cultural policy programme will take place in the iconic Frankfurt Pavilion located outdoors on the fair’s Agora. Panel members will include Claudia Roth, (Germany’s Federal Commissioner for Culture and the Media), Irina Scherbakova (author, co-founder of the human rights organisation Memorial), Dmitry Glukhovskiy (bestselling Russian author in exile) and Meron Mendel (Bildungsstätte Anne Frank). Organised together with Germany’s Federal Foreign Office, the Frankfurt Forum will take place in the pavilion and focus on the topic of democracy and human rights. There, Prof. Staffan Lindberg (Director of the V-Dem Institute, University of Gothenburg) will present the Democracy Report.

Human rights reading, Ukraine and fighters for the future

To mark the 75th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, international authors will read selected texts in their native languages. They will come from the book fair’s Guest of Honour countries, such as Slovenia, Italy and the Philippines. Under the motto “Fragility of Existence”, the Goethe-Institut Ukraine and the Ukrainian Book Institute will present Ukraine’s cultural sector at a 200-square-metre stand. As testimony to the crimes committed by the Third Reich, the exhibition “Scorched Places – Book Burnings of 1933” will be shown on the Agora. Photographs of today’s “scorched places” will be the focus of the exhibition, inviting viewers to engage with history. During “SHEROES – Streiterinnen für die Zukunft” (SHEROES – Fighters for the Future), broadcasters ARD, ZDF and 3sat will use their stage to present strong female voices. Participants will include climate activist and Last Generation founder Lea Bonasera, former FEMEN activist Zana Ramadani, and AI expert and founder Mina Saidze. On the panel "Black Femininity - (New) Daughters of Africa", writer Bridget Minamore, translator Eleonore Wiedenroth-Coulibaly and researcher Dr Denise Bergold-Caldwell will talk about writing against the background of experiences of discrimination.

PRESS INFORMATION

Looking to the future: Trade programme with international experts and industry leaders*CEOs in conversation / Focus topic AI / Sustainable and accessible publishing / #BookTok in focus

From CEOs of major publishing houses to innovation drivers from growth markets and adjacent sectors: the stages at this year's book fair will welcome guests who are looking to the future. The participating experts and decision makers will be sharing their knowledge and discussing the topics that are currently transforming the industry.

CEOs in conversation

Top managers from the world of international publishing will be shedding light on their experiences in the field. At the Global 50 CEO Talk in the Frankfurt Pavilion, for example, Hou Xiaonan, CEO of the Chinese storytelling platform Yuewen, which is used by 200 million people each month, will answer questions posed by members of the international trade press. Other speakers participating in the fair's trade programme include Nihar Malaviya (CEO, Penguin Random House), Peter Warwick (CEO, Scholastic), Kim Chongsatitwatana (CEO, Nanmeebooks), Jes Wolfe (CEO, Rebel Girls) and many more.

Sustainable and accessible publishing

What steps can the publishing industry take to promote climate protection and climate justice? Sustainability will be the focus topic on several stages at the fair. Another key issue will be accessibility, including accessibility of content – for example, through the use of simplified language. Selected events:

IPA Sustainability Summit

(18 October, 1:00 pm, Conclusio Rooms 1+2, Congress Center)

Climate Action: “The Era of Global Boiling” – What Can We Do?

(19 October, 2:00 pm, International Stage)

Sustainability and the Future of Scholarly Communication

(20 October, 11:00 am, Publishing Perspectives Forum)

From Inclusion to Innovation: How Accessibility Is Transforming the Book Value Chain

(18 October, 3:00 pm, Frankfurt Studio)

Trade programme on children's and young adult media and Frankfurt Audio

In addition to the international conference in the Publishing Perspectives Forum on Wednesday, numerous specialist events on media for children and young adults will also take place. The Aldus Up Stage will focus on artificial intelligence in book illustrations and multilingualism in children's books. Laurie Halse Anderson, recipient of the 2023 Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award, will speak in the Frankfurt Studio about diversity.

Information about the trade programme on audio-related topics can be found in the press release included in this press kit and at www.buchmesse.de/en/frankfurt-audio

New: International Stage and Networking Café

A look at book markets and literary and cultural policy topics around the globe: the new International Stage between the international Halls 5 and 6 (Foyer, Level 1) provides a platform for promoting exchange among members of the international publishing community. A range of topics will be discussed there, including book markets in Africa and Asia and the current situation of libraries in the UK and US. The Networking Café located next to the stage is the perfect place for meeting existing contacts and making new ones.

www.buchmesse.de/en/frankfurt-international-stage

Publishing Perspectives Forum:

Trade conferences on children's and young adult media, audio and academic publishing

On all three trade visitor days, experts and decision makers will gather at the Publishing Perspectives Forum to discuss the topics and trends transforming international publishing: from the current state of AI use to sustainability strategies for small and medium-sized publishing houses. The trade mini-conference on Wednesday will focus on children's and young adult media. Thursday afternoon will be dedicated to audio, and academic publishing will be the topic of discussion on Friday. The speakers will include well-known publishing CEOs and other experts, such as Anna Soler-Pont (Founder, Pontas Literary & Film), Rachel Martin (Global Director of Sustainability, Elsevier) and Pedro Sobral (Chief Publishing Officer, LeYa). Participation in all events is free of charge. Language: English. Location: Spektrum Room (Congress Center, Level 2). The programme is being curated by the international trade journal Publishing Perspectives in cooperation with Frankfurter Buchmesse. For more on the programme: publishingperspectives.com/pp-forum/

International Translation Centre

The 200-square-metre International Translation Centre (4.1 F81) will not only have its own stage, but its own networking area as well. Trade visitors can expect a stage programme featuring international guests. A wide range of topics will be addressed, including the use of AI tools, and translating at the intersection of power, language and politics. Book fair Guests of Honour Slovenia (2023) and Italy (2024) will also host events. The International Translation Centre is being jointly organised by the trade association Verband der Übersetzer*innen VdÜ and Frankfurter Buchmesse. www.buchmesse.de/en/translation-centre

Academic and specialist information

The international area Academic, STM and Content Services will be located primarily in Halls 4.0 and 5.1. An accompanying programme featuring international experts will provide insights into current market developments. The programme is also explicitly designed for professionals from the library and information sectors, with events in the Publishing Perspectives Forum (Charleston Conference on Friday, 20 October) and in the Frankfurt Studio (micro-conference of the Society for Scholarly Publishing). www.buchmesse.de/en/academic

Frankfurt Rights Meeting in a new format

For over 30 years, the Frankfurt Rights Meeting is where the book industry's rights and licensing specialists have come together each autumn. This year, under the motto "Licensing in Times of Turmoil", it will host four sessions online in September and a networking event with a keynote address on Tuesday, 17 October 2023, on the fairgrounds in Frankfurt. Participants will gain insights into the audio market's current situation and developing trends, and into the streaming scene and its business models, among other topics. www.buchmesse.de/frm

International booksellers conference

This year once again, the European and International Booksellers Federation (EIBF) will be organising a half-day conference at the fair for booksellers and book trade associations. Speakers will include Hazel Kenyon (Director of Research, Nielsen BookData) and Slovenian literary agent Zala Zagoršek (VigeVageKnjige). The conference will take place on Thursday, 19 October, in Fantasie Room 1 (Congress Center). <https://europeanbooksellers.eu/>

PRESS INFORMATION

In search of good stories: Book-to-Screen Day at Frankfurter Buchmesse connects filmmakers and the book industry

Friday's focus topic is film and series adaptations / Programme will feature matchmaking, networking and presentations

Which books have the potential to be turned into movies? Which genres and subjects are the producers of films and series interested in? Which steps are necessary for a book to make its way onto the cinema or TV screen? On the Friday of the fair (20 October 2023), Frankfurter Buchmesse will be putting the spotlight on film and series adaptations during Book-to-Screen Day. Numerous events will give filmmakers access to the international book industry while promoting interaction among the relevant players.

Book-to-Screen Day will feature a tour of the book fair for international filmmakers, a matchmaking session curated by Frankfurter Buchmesse and the Berlinale for film producers, publishers and agents, and the Comics' Cocktail, a curated comics-to-screen matchmaking event to be held in the Comics Centre in Hall 6.1. The event "Neue Geschichten vom Franz" (New Stories from Franz) will take place in the Frankfurt Pavilion on the Agora in cooperation with the Berlinale Co-Production Market. Together with guests Anna Zielasko (Senior Rights Manager, Verlagsgruppe Oetinger), Katharina Posch (Producer, Nikolaus Geyrhalter Filmproduktion) and Sarah Wassermair (screenwriter), moderator Syd Atlas will take a look behind the scenes of the new film adaptation of Christiane Nöstlinger's children's book of the same name. In addition, the topics of diversity in films and illustrations and "Film Meets Games" will be explored on the Aldus Up Stage in Hall 4.1 from 3.00 pm to 8.00 pm. The B3 – Festival of the Moving Image and the Academy for Children's Media will also be organising their own programme offerings. All events: <https://www.buchmesse.de/en/rights-licenses/book-screen>

As the leading marketplace for rights and licences, Frankfurter Buchmesse has long viewed film and series adaptations as an important topic. After all, every October the international publishing industry gathers in Frankfurt to celebrate good stories. For international filmmakers, it's a valuable opportunity to discover new stories, characters and ideas from around the world – all in one place. Frankfurter Buchmesse connects the creative industries and promotes interaction between publishers and the film and streaming sectors so that these stories can be told anew.

Frankfurt Audio: spotlight on the spoken word

330 sqms of audio products and services / Conference format with international audio experts / Networking opportunities / Audio Ambassador service

Frankfurt Audio – the book fair’s audio area – is all about the spoken word. Latest innovations, trends and services from the audio sector will be presented across a 330-sqm space in Hall 3.1 at Frankfurter Buchmesse. International players and service providers – including Spotify, Audible, Beat Technology, Bookwire, DeepZen, Dreamscape Media, Edel, hoopla digital, New Books in the Cloud, Pozotron, relaxound and ZebraLution – will present their products and services at their own stands, while at the IG Hörbuch collective stand (3.1 K25) Penguin Random House Audio, Bastei Lübbe, Argon and many other exhibitors will showcase their latest audiobook productions.

Mini-conference with international audio experts on Thursday

International audio and publishing professionals will be gathering on the Thursday of the fair during the audio mini-conference at the Publishing Perspectives Forum (19 October 2023, 2.00–4.45 pm; Congress Center, Level 2, room Spektrum). American actor (The Wire and Madam Secretary, among others) and award-winning audiobook narrator Dion Graham opens the professional programme with his keynote via video message. Matthew Gain, Senior Vice President and Head of Audible Europe, will present sales and audience data. Mariana Féged from Bookwire and publisher Victoria Gerken will talk about developments in the Spanish and US markets. The panel discussion on audio in small publishing markets, moderated by Nathan Hull (CSO, Beat Technology, UK) and co-organised with Guest of Honour Slovenia, will feature experts from Slovenia, Portugal and Hungary. Participants can gather for a chat during the follow-up networking reception, sponsored by Bookwire. There will also be an opportunity to network during the Happy Hour at the IG Hörbuch stand (5.00 pm, 3.1 K25). Language: English; participation is free with a ticket valid for admission to the fair on Thursday.

PRESS INFORMATION

Salman Rushdie, Lizzie Doron, Cornelia Funke: Audience highlights at FBM23

Events with Deborah Feldman, Lexi Ryan, Christopher Clark / New: Meet the Author Area & TikTok Book Award

For the 75th time, Frankfurter Buchmesse will be celebrating new books, inspiring authors and moving stories: on the first literary stage jointly hosted by broadcasters ARD, ZDF and 3sat, in the Congress Center's main hall, in the Frankfurt Studio, in the Frankfurt Pavilion, on the new open stage, and throughout Frankfurt during BOOKFEST city.

Literary stage from ARD, ZDF and 3sat

Every day from 10:00 am to 6:00 pm, new literary works will be presented on the literary stage organised by broadcasters ARD, ZDF and 3sat. Well-known presenters such as Bärbel Schäfer, Denis Scheck, Knut Cordsen, Mona Ameziane, Thea Dorn, Katty Salié, Jo Schück, Vivian Perkovic and Gert Scobel will interact with acclaimed authors. Guests will include Elke Heidenreich, Peter Wohlleben, Terézia Mora, Thomas Hettche, Kai Diekmann and Otto Waalkes. For the series "SHEROES – Streiterinnen für die Zukunft" (SHEROES – Fighters for the Future), author and journalist Jagoda Marinić will debate daily with socially and politically engaged women. ZDF presenter and author Thea Dorn will welcome viewers to a special edition of the "Literary Quartet" book discussion show. Moderator Gert Scobel of 3sat and book experts from "Buchzeit" will take a critical look at selected new publications. The prestigious Aspekte literature prize will also be awarded during the book fair. Highlights by broadcasters Arte, Phoenix and Deutschlandfunk Kultur will round out the offerings.

Literary gala and BOOKFEST

In Harmonie Hall at the Congress Center, ARD, ZDF and 3sat will host a literary gala with Salman Rushdie, Christopher Clark, Lizzie Doron, Cornelia Funke, Amir Gudarzi and Thomas Hettche. Salman Rushdie will be awarded the Peace Prize of the German Book Trade this year. At the literary gala, the laureate will talk about his new book Victory City – an epic novel about power, love and what it means to be human. Meanwhile, in the Frankfurt Studio, Die drei ??? will read from their new graphic novel, followed by a STERN Crime Talk on real-world illegalities. The book fair will also be putting in an appearance beyond the fairgrounds – as BOOKFEST city in bookshops in the greater Rhine-Main area and in Frankfurt's libraries, among other locations. Participants will include Deborah Feldman, Gaby Hauptmann, Tom Hillenbrand, Nilufar Karkhiran Khozani, Judith Merchant, Rüdiger Safranski and Axel Scheffler.

Frankfurt Kids Festival

A highlight for families: the Frankfurt Kids Festival, which will take place from Friday to Sunday. The festival programme will include readings, signings, drawing workshops, games and activities for small (and big) literature fans. For the first time, the venue for the festival will be an open stage outdoors on the fairgrounds. That's where Tafiti the meerkat will celebrate his 10th birthday, for example. The fun will continue when German comic Otto Waalkes reinterprets 75 art masterpieces using his Ottifanten figures. What's more, pop star Sasha will present read-aloud stories and children's songs. Also outdoors and not to be missed is the Frankfurt Pavilion. On Sunday, the pavilion's spotlight will be on bestselling children's books, when authors such as Katja Brandis, Alice Pantermüller, Daniela Kohl and Ursula Poznanski discuss their new works.

TikTok Book Award

The official award ceremony for the first German TikTok Book Award will take place on 21 October 2023 from 6:00 pm to 8:00 pm in the Frankfurt Pavilion on the Agora. TikTok will also have a stand in the new Meet the Author area, where the social video platform will provide insights for users, authors, publishers and creators – during the panel discussion “#BookTok: From TikTok to Bookshops”, for example. Participants will include Tobias Henning, General Manager TikTok DACH & Central Eastern Europe.

Meet the Author area

The Meet the Author area in Hall 4.1 is the new event location for informal interactions between authors and fans. Lexi Ryan, Lucy Score and Benjamin Lacombe and many others will be present at the area's four tables for signings and selfies.

Book sales

Book sales are permitted this year beginning at 2:00 pm on Friday and continuing until Sunday.

Start of Frankfurter Buchmesse: "Promoting Diversity – Defending Democracy"

Opening of Frankfurter Buchmesse 2023 / Book industry's aim to play a role in strengthening democracy / Small publishing houses in particular at their limit due to economic pressure – structural support urgently needed to maintain diversity on the book market

Frankfurter Buchmesse opens its doors for the 75th time tomorrow. The book fair is a place of democracy par excellence, said Karin Schmidt-Friderichs, Chairwoman of the Börsenverein des Deutschen Buchhandels (German Publishers & Booksellers Association) at the press conference to mark the opening of the fair. "In the coming days, we will experience a multitude of stories, sentiments, inspiring ideas and opinions. Unlike any other institution, the book fair brings people from different countries together to talk peacefully about books and social issues."

This is of great importance given the many current crises. Schmidt-Friderichs: "We are deeply shocked by the Hamas terrorist attacks on Israel. We vehemently condemn this violence. Our sympathy goes to all the victims of the violence in Israel and Palestine. Russia's war of aggression against Ukraine, violating international law, has been raging on the edge of Europe now for a year and a half. Looking at Germany, we are concerned by the increase in popularity of extreme positions in society and the political party landscape. Debates are heating up; words are triggering waves of agitation. All around us, populism and nationalism are gaining ground at an alarming rate."

Basic democratic values are increasingly under attack, says Karin Schmidt-Friderichs. "Democracy, freedom and diversity are cornerstones of our society. We must defend them, as individuals, as an industry and as a society. The book industry can make a fundamental contribution to this. However, we need stable framework conditions in order to continue to perform this important role in the future."

A growing number of publishers and bookstores, authors, translators as well as the logistics sector of the industry are reaching their economic limits. At first glance, the current market figures are positive: Turnover in the central sales channels increased by four per cent in the first nine months of the year compared to the same period last year (source: Media Control). At the same time, however, 1.1 per cent fewer books were sold, and as much as 7.4 per cent fewer compared to the first three quarters of the pre-pandemic year 2019.

"The pandemic years of store closures and cancelled trade fairs, as well as the explosion in raw material and energy costs, are threatening the economic existence of small, independent publishing houses in particular. These publishers play a decisive role in shaping the diversity of the book market by offering titles outside the mainstream and discovering new titles and writers. Politicians and society must ask themselves: What is a diverse book landscape worth to us? We urgently need structural support for publishers. There is a need for action here to quickly implement the ideas from the coalition agreement and to include the necessary funds in the federal budget," said Karin Schmidt-Friderichs.

Furthermore, the visibility of books in the media is fundamental for the industry and society: "Books and discourse surrounding them are vital building blocks in our culture of debate. It is one of the central tasks of public broadcasting to provide a space for such debates. Therefore, books need a proper platform here too – contemporary, also on new, non-linear (on-demand) channels – but also in linear programming and in formats that are familiar and accessible to the public. Those responsible in the media should keep this in mind with regard to upcoming transformations," says Schmidt-Friderichs.
